Fight In U. N. Over Marshall Program Looms

Western Powers, Reds May Tangle

LAKE SUCCESS, July 16 (AP) — Delegates to the United Nations economic and social council began assembling tonight for the council's fifth session which many expected to develop into a major fight between Russian and the Western powers over the Marshall Plan.

Preliminary discussions will begin at 11 a. m. (EDT) tomorrow when the agenda committee meets to consider the 36 items which have been placed on the provisional calendar. The council itself will hold its first meeting Saturday morning.

Will Resume Debate

Tomorrow's economic discussions will begin as the security council resumes debate on the Balkan question in which the United States is pressing for a showdown with Russia.

Authoritative sources said some U.N. delegations were considering the possibility of setting up a Greek border watch outside the world organization if Russia blocked action on the Balkans.

Delegates to the economic and social council were generally agreed that their forthcoming session would be the most critical in U.N. history as a result of the growing economic split between Russia and the Western Powers.

The Russians, headed by Prof. Alexander P. Morozov, were silent about their plans, but there appeared to be little doubt that they would carry to the council their fight against the British-French plans to implement the Marshall program.

Morozov already has indicated he would raise another highly controversial issue—a Soviet proposal to outlaw international loans for military purposes. This proposal, if adopted, would strike directly at the American program of aid to Greece and Turkey.

A member of the American delegation said it was highly possible that Russia might bring up Secretary of State Marshall's program of economic aid to Europe, even though this was not on the agenda as an item for debate.

Top members of the U. S. delegation still were in Washington, completing plans for the session. Assistant Secretary of State Willard L. Thorp, nominated to head the delegation, was ready to attend Saturday's session if his nomination was confirmed by the Senate in time. If it is delayed, Leroy Stinebower will sit in as acting chief.

British Send McNeil

The British will be represented by Minister of State Hector McNeil, but he was not expected here until Sunday or Monday. France will be represented by Pierre Mendes-France and China by Dr. P. C. Chang.

Major items before the council include:

Reports of the economic commission for Europe, the Economic Commission for Asia and the Far East, and the economic and employment commission.

Senate Votes Freeze Of Social Security

WASHINGTON, July 16 (AP)—Legislation freezing the Social Security tax for the next two years at the present rate of one per cent each on employes and employers was passed by the Senate today in amended form and sent back to the House.

Without the legislation, the tax rate would rise automatically next January 1 to two and one-half per cent on each.

The House had voted to allow the rate to go up to one and one-half per cent for the years 1950 through 1956, and to two per cent thereafter. The Senate Finance Committee recommended, however, that Congress postpone permanent changes in Social Security laws pending a complete study of rates, costs and coverage.

With the rate frozen at one per cent since 1937, approximately $8,700,000,000 has accumulated in the Old Age and Survivors Insurance Trust Fund. The fund's income in fiscal 1947 was $1,565,000,000, with disbursements estimated at $464,000,000 for the same period.

EXALTED RULER—Lafayette A. Lewis (above), 58, Los Angeles attorney, was elected Grand Exalted Ruler of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks in convention at Portland, Ore. He is a member of Anaheim, Calif., lodge and lives at Whittier, Calif.

Taft Disagrees With Henderson's Slump Prediction

Former OPA Chief Sees Price Tumble

WASHINGTON, July 16 (AP) — Leon Henderson, former OPA chief, said today the nation is headed for a price collapse rivalling the 1920-21 slump unless consumer buying power is jacked up, but Senator Taft (R-Ohio) flatly disagreed.

"Today, just as in 1920, prices have been permitted to get out of hand," Henderson told the joint Congressional Committee on the economic report. Then he predicted a tumble.

But Taft shook his head. "You've got a perfectly tremendous economy," the Republican leader said. "Everybody has more money than ever before."

Aid Conference Asked To Submit Foreign Property

PARIS, July 16 (AP) — France proposed to the European Economic Conference today that colonial resources of all member nations be included in drawing up the economic balance sheet in a co-ordinated reconstruction program under the Marshall Plan.

Addressing the opening session of the new organization's "co-operation" or Steering Committee, Herve Alphand of France said the 16 member nations should reckon overseas production of essential materials in compiling their needs and assets.

French sources said no opposition was expressed to this move which would encompass British Colonies, France's Territories in Africa, Asia and America, the Belgian Congo, Portuguese Colonies in Africa and Asia, Dutch Possessions, and even Denmark's Greenland.

British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin already has pledged Britain's colonial resources to continental co-operation.

Alphand's proposal was part of amore Comprehensive French project on procedure which the committee is to take up for decision at its next session tomorrow. This eight-section project, in the form of a questionnaire to be submitted to participating governments, even suggested that the assistance needed to increase colonial production of fats, woods, minerals and other materials be tallied.

The questionnaire would give the committee data on difficulties due to the war such as destruction and loss of population; accomplishments by each nation for its own reconstruction; contributions which have been made or will be made to the reconstruction of other nations; reconstruction efforts projected for the next four years; a tally of the surpluses and deficits of each nation in foodstuffs and raw materials; estimated import needs and export possibilities in mechanical equipment and industrial products; estimates of the mode of balance payments; contributions each could make to other nations under such headlines as credits, manpower, migration.

Truman Offers Plan To Check Waters Of Miss.

Asks $250 Million To Get Work Going

WASHINGTON, July 16 (AP) — A quick start on a 10-year program to check floods in the entire Mississippi basin and put the mighty waters to productive uses was urged by President Truman in a special message to Congress.

He asked $250,000,000 to get the work started.

Citing the long history of Mid-West flood tragedies, the Chief Executive declared that flood control is a problem of "desperate urgency."

Gets Quick Support

"We can accomplish nothing by piecemeal if we are to control our great floods."

Senator Revercomb (R-WVa) said that as a member of the Public Works Committee which handles flood-control legislation he "wholeheartedly" endorses the plan "to proceed with reasonable speed" toward execution of the program.

Senator McClellan (D-Ark) declared that to withhold or slash appropriations for flood-control work is "extravagant waste rather than sound economy."

In his message, Mr. Truman spoke not only of the destructive fury of the flood waters but also of their potential value.

"The major opportunity of our generation to increase the wealth of the nation lies in the development of [illegible] river systems," he said.

But for many years now, he continued, the flood-swollen waters of the Mississippi and its great tributaries—the Missouri, Ohio, Arkansas and Red Rivers—have dealt the nation's economy a series of blows, both in lives and property, which "call strongly for the prompt use of more effective counter-measures."

"Must Pay Price"

"The drainage basin of the Mississippi River and its tributaries comprises nearly half of the nation in area and population,' Mr. Truman said.

"It is a rich central core from which stem goods and services vital to the entire country. x x x Nature also requires the use of these flood plains for drainage. Consequently, we must pay the price for occupancy of these lands, either in the form of continued flood damage or in preventative measures."

In urging speed to combat what he termed "this continued threat," Mr. Truman said that most of the necessary projects have already been authorized by Congress, but he said the 10-year program should also contain a smaller group of projects which have not yet been authorized. The projects, he said, are now being "planned and investigated."

England Worries About Wedding

LONDON, July 16 (AP) — Should Princess Elizabeth's wedding be a big one, with dancing in the streets and fireworks at night, or a simple little affair with only a few thousand guests and the second-best silverware?

This austerity versus glamor debate waxed hot over the nation's teacups today and spilled over into the letters-to-the-editor columns.

"If Princess Elizabeth were to have a quiet wedding and not waste a lot of money and time, maybe it would encourage us to carry on working harder," a Yorkshire factory worker wrote to the Daily Mirror.

"Away with austerity—let us make it a day she, and all of us, will remember," urged a writer to the Daily Express.

By the Daily Express' count, six Britons favor a wedding with all the trimmings—to help people forget the drabness of life amid bomb ruins and shortages—for every one who holds that a modest affair would be more suitable in the present economic crisis.

But some criticism was voiced of last week's rejoicing over the announcement of Elizabeth's betrothal to Lt. Philip Mountbatten. A London suburban woman wrote to the Daily Mirror.

"I don't dislike the royal family. They are a grand example to the country, but I cannot help feeling it would be good if they lived more simply.

"Is it right that Princess Elizabeth should have 60,000 pounds ($240,000) a year and her husband 15,000 ($60,000) when we are on the verge of bankruptcy?"

Be that as it may, the Elizabeth-Philip romance was putting ideas into a lot of people's heads. A bond Street marriage broker reported business was up 60 per cent and happily gave full credit to the Princess for setting the example.

Probe Of Kilgore Election Ordered

Fraud Is Charged In W. Va., Voting

WASHINGTON, July 16 (AP)—The Senate Rules Committee unanimously authorized a "full and complete" investigation into alleged frauds in the 1946 election of Senator Kilgore, Democrat of West Virginia.

Chairman Jenner (R-Ind.) of the subcommittee which recommended the investigation after a spot check in two West Virginia Counties, told reporters after a closed session of the rules committee that the latter also unanimously approved a resolution asking the Senate for $95,000,000 additional funds for the probe.

Thomas Sweeney, a Republican, is contesting Kilgore's election, charging fraud and irregularities. Kilgore won the election by an official state margin of 3,534 votes out of a total of more than 500,000 cast.

"Vote Frauds" Apparent

The Rules Committee found that "it appears" from preliminary investigation that "vote frauds, election irregularities and the purchase of votes were prevalent" in the election.

The investigation will be conducted in the 12 counties cited by Sweeney in his complaint. They are: Boone, Cabell, Fayette, Kanawha, Logan, Mercer, Mingo, Monroe, McDowell, Raleigh, Wayne and Wyoming.

Jenner said the investigation would not concern other counties in the state.

Jenner also announced replacement of Jack W. Hardy as the committee's chief counsel for the investigation and said Nelson Deranian would take over the work.

Hardy last week told a reporter that a preliminary check in Kanawha and Raleigh counties showed that votes has been bought for "$2 and up and whisky."

Jenner declined to elaborate today when asked about specific instances of alleged fraud revealed to the full committee. He said only "enough evidence of fraud was found to go ahead."

Kilgore was not immediately available but his office said there would be no comment.

Enlarging Staff

The Rules Committee specified that the investigating staff in the field be enlarged "as required" to complete the work at an average monthly cost for salaries and authorized expenses not to exceed $13,000 a month.

Atomic Ladling In Control Plan Sought By Russia

Gromyko Wants Atom Quota System Set Up

LAKE SUCCESS, July 16 (AP)—Soviet Russia called today for a third atomic convention which would set up a quota system for ladling out atomic materials to countries taking part in a world-wide control plan.

In a surprise declaration to a closed meeting of the Political Committee of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission, Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister, declared that a quota system should be established by a special convention. This convention, he said, should contain the points on which nations could assume their obligations in the quota set-up.

Gromyko already has proposed two conventions to the U. N. The first would ban atomic weapons immediately. The second would establish controls for atomic energy under an international control organ.

Delegates and newsmen at first interpreted Gromyko to mean the quota system should apply to distribution among the nations bearing atomic materials.

Newsmen asked him whether his proposal included only the mining of ores.

42 Genoa Children Die In Boat Accident

GENOA, July 16 (AP) — Forty-two children drowned today when a boat in which they were sailing struck an underwater fortification, overturned and sank near Loano, southwest of Savona off the Ligurian coast.

Forty other children on the boat, the property of a summer vacation camp, were saved by coast guardsmen and fishermen. The children and four teachers were all from Milan. Two of the teachers drowned and a third is missing.

Invites 11 Nations To Meet August 19

WASHINGTON, July 16—(AP)—The United States challenged Russia and the other great powers today to give up their veto rights in drafting a peace treaty for Japan. It also suggested that a conference to begin work on the treaty be held here or in San Francisco beginning August 19.

The proposal for the conference was announced by the State Department. In addition to changing the voting procedure from that followed by the great powers in working on the German, Austrian and European satellite treaties, the American proposal would put original treaty drafting into the hands of 11 nations instead of simply the big powers.

British Approve

In London, authoritative British sources expressed qualified approval of United States proposal. It was indicated, however, that Britain might question the date for the conference because it might conflict with a British Empire Conference on Japanese problems, scheduled for August 26 in Canberra, Australia.

Diplomatic authorities predicted that France and China would accept the American suggestions.

However, there was considerable uncertainty whether Russia would go along. Secretary of State Marshall was asked at a news conference today whether the United States would follow the proposed procedure or would allow it to be delayed indefinitely by a Soviet rejection. Marshall said he would have to wait until such a situation arose before discusing it.

The 10 nations to which the United States made the proposal for an early start on the Japanese treaty are Britain, Russia, China, the Philippines, India, Australia, New Zealand, France, the Netherlands and Canada. These and the United States compose the Far Eastern Commission here and are considered to be the 11 countries which made the greatest contributions in the war against Japan.

In the commission each of the "big four" of the Far East—America, Britain, China and Russia—has a veto power over decisions. By inviting the nations indivitiually and suggesting a different voting procedure, the United States is moving to get away from this veto power.

American opposition to the veto is based on official feeling here that it has been used by Russia in European treaty making to delay progress. It is contended that in drafting a Japanese treaty decisions should be reached by a simple two-thirds vote.

Today's formal announcement, which did not disclose the voting suggestion although officials privately described how that would work, discussed the desirability of having the initial treaty drafting done by more than simply the big powers.

Conference Advocated

"An eleven power conference is advocated," the announcement said, "because it would provide a broad representative basis of participation

Marshall Would Admit Refugees

WASHINGTON, July 16 (AP) — Secretary of State Marshall asked Congress today to open the doors to at least 100,000 European war refugees within the next 12 months to demonstrate that "we are not retreating behind the Atlantic Ocean."

This is necessary in part, he said, to remove a source of "conflict and friction" with Russia.

Marshall told a House Judiciary Subcommittee that to yield to repeated Soviet demands for the forcible return of "these allies of ours" from Germany to their pre-war homes would violate both American tradition and United Nations principles.

On the other hand, he continued, Congressional approval of a bill to admit 400,000 displaced persons to this country over a four-year period "will have an important bearing on our foreign policy."

In the face of a tentative decision to shunt the bill over to the next session, Marshall indicated his willingness to accept now a modified measure for admission of only 100,000. He said it would be "a lot better than nothing."

The subcommittee also:

1. Heard Secretary of War Patterson say that resettlement of Europe's approximate 900,000 refugees would be "a significant factor in promotion of world peace."

2. Received a statement from Secretary of Commerce Harriman declaring that "the procrastination which has so far characterized our national conduct on this problem reflects little credit upon ourselves x x x."

3. Decided to call Attorney General Tom Clark on Friday to answer questions on what could be done to prevent spies or persons with subversive ideologies from gaining entry among the displaced persons if and when the bill is passed. Clark already has endorsed the measure.

Greek Army Begins New Hill Attack

300 Guerrillas Reported Killed

ATHENS, July 16 (AP)—Supported by planes and heavy gunfire, the Greek Army launched a full-scale attack late today on approximately 2,500 guerrillas in the hills north of Ioannina, near the Albanian frontier, military sources reported.

Three hundred irregulars were reported wiped out in one engagement. The main guerilla force was believed withdrawing eastward in an attempt to make a junction with other leftists fighting in the Grammos Mountain Range.

In Hot Pursuit

Military sources said the army and strafing planes were in hot pursuitg, and that infantrymen were eliminating rear-guard forces left behind to cover the withdrawal.

The attack was launched following a heavy bombardment and strafing of the slopes of Mount Gamila and an area including the villages of Kato, Pedina, Ano, Elatohori, Paleoloutsa and Asprangelos where the guerrillas earlier were reported encircled.

The only serious resistance was encountered in the vicinity of Elathori and Asprangelos, approximately 19 miles from Ioannina, where 300 guerrillas were said to have been wiped out.

The guerrillas were part of a force which the government said invaded Greece from Albania and attempted to march on Ioannina, capital of Epirus and a strategic city of 20,000 near the Albanian frontier.

Earlier government reports from the fighting front indicated that 4,500 regulars—many of them airborne reinforcements — had closed the jaws of a trap on the guerrillas in the vicinity of Mount Gamila, near the village of Negradhes, where the Leftists were halted yesterday.

Report "Foreigners" Fighting

Napoleon Zervas, Minister of Public Order, said that statements made by prisoners asserted that two of eight battalions in the attack were "foreigners." The invaders, Zervas said, were excellently equipped with heavy machine guns and mortars.

Sources in government circles said there was a possibility Greece would request American permission to use additional Truman Doctrine funds to more than double the size of the Greek Army.

Marshall Anxious To See Ruhr Coal Output Increased

WASHINGTON, July 16 (AP)—Secretary of State Marshall today pictured German coal as essential to European recovery and declared the United States is anxious to see Ruhr coal production increased.

To that end, he told a news conference, British and American experts will meet the latter part of next week in conferences here.

In London, authoritative persons indicated the British may ask the United States at this meeting to assume a greater share of the burden of feeding and administering the combined British-American Zones in the conquered nations.

The additional cost for the American taxpayers would be between $250,000,000 and $350,000,000 over the next two years if this government agrees to the request, it was estimated. The costs now are shared half and half, but Britain is expected to tell this country that her own strained resources will not permit her to carry this much of the load.

Marshall recently was asked whether the United States would consider it if such a request were made. He replied it would be considered but he did not say whether the American attitude would be favorable.

At today's conference, Marshall was asked whether the United States will send officials to the Paris Economic Conference to give a hand toward fitting Germany into the European Economic Program. He said the initiative is that of the Europeans and that is the way he would desire it to be.

Other officials said that General Lucius B. Clay, American commander in Germany, has been instructed to co-operate as far as necessary to help the Paris conference in dealing with the American Occupation Zone. Thus the United States might lend a hand to committees supplying facts on the German economy.

Fail, However, To Endorse His European Plan

Approve Universal Military Training

SALT LAKE CITY, July 16 (AP) —The Governors' Conference called tonight for a non-partisan peace-seeking foreign policy and expressed "faith and confidence" in Secretary of State Marshall.

In a generalized statement on foreign policy, the governors of 44 states avoided any specific endorsement of Marshall's European rehabilitation program.

They adopted, however, a resolution which said:

"To the Secretary of State, Hon. George C. Marshall, we express our faith and confidence and our deep appreciation for his inspiring address to the conference."

Delivered Address Monday

Marshall had addressed the governors Monday night urging support of proposals to extend economic aid to the European Countries.

Before they closed a four-day session tonight the governors approved a resolution urging universal military training in which the facilities of the national guard would be utilized "to the greatest extent possible."

The foreign policy resolution noted that American strength in the world today "is largely dependent upon the solidarity of the citizens of our sovereign states, particularly in their relations with foreign countries."

The foreign policy of this country is intimately related to the support of our historic liberties," the resolution said, adding:

"Therefore, the Governors conference hereby asserts its conviction that the foreign policy of this country transcends in importance all partisan, personal or political considerations and should be at all times an American foreign policy, representative of the best in America and representing the United States to the nations of the world as a country that seeks peace and is united in its determination to protect the inalienable rights and privileges that our citizens now enjoy."

Approved Earlier

The foreign policy resolution, written by Gov. Alfred J. Driscoll, New Jersey Republican, originally had contained the expression of confidence in Marshall when it was approved earlier in the day by the conference's resolutions committee.

In the closed session of all the governors when it was adopted, however, the Marshall appreciation portion was transfered to another general resolution of appreciation and his name deleted from the foreign policy pledge.

Some immediate conjecture that the resolution was limited in its terms brought prompt denial from

Man, 39, Arrested For Raping Child

CATONSVILLE, Md., July 16—(AP) —A Spring Grove State Hospital attendant charged with the rape of an 11-year-old girl was being held in an undisclosed jail today.

The man, identified as Roy Lee Lethco, 39, a native of Raleigh, N. C., was arrested by a posse yesterday after the girl had been found in a wooded area near this suburban Baltimore Community.

After news of the case and the arrest of the man spread through Catonsville, a large crowd gathered, and police spirited him away.

Police Lt. Joseph E. Sarsitis said Lethco also was being questioned in the death of Anne Ryan, 14, whose body was found yesterday in a Patapsco River mill race near Catonsville.

She had been missing from her home two days. After an autopsy, a Baltimore County Medical Examiner's report said she was drowned.

There were no evidences of violence.

The 11-year-old girl was reported in "fair" condition at St. Agnes' Hospital today. She was described as a "member of a well-known old Maryland family."

State Care For Russian Children Has Its Beginning At Conception

NEW YORK, July 16 (AP) — The Russian state medical system for care of children which starts with the first known day of pregnancy was described to the third international pediatrics congress today by Dr. A. F. Tour, professor of child diseases at the Leningrad Pediatric Medical Institute.

Two new types of medical institutions have been developed by the Russians.

First is the medical consultation station for women. A woman goes there as soon as she knows she is pregnant. She is taught baby care and given any medical care needed including that for diseases not directly connected with pregnancy. Later, where possible, she is sent to a gynecological clinic and hospital to have her baby.

Tour said in large cities and workers settlements 100 per cent of the women are provided with obstetrical assistance.

The second new institution is the childrens' consultation station. Each station has a district and Tour said each tries to provide 100 per cent care for young children in the district.

Also, not common in most countries, this station tries to care for psychic or mental development.

Negro Who Was Denied Car He Won In Raffle Will Be Given Cadillac

AHOSKIE, N. C., July 16 (AP) — The Ahoskie Kiwanis Club, spurred on by a mounting wave of protests, decided today to provide a $3,200 Cadillac automobile for Harvey Jones, the 25-year-old negro war veteran, who held the lucky number in the club's raffle of such a car last week but who was told after the drawing that negroes were not eligible for the prize.

Directors of the club acted after receiving a telephone call from their international president, Dr. Carl W. Armstrong of Salisbury, urging them to see that Jones received a car identical with the one given away in the lottery.

Armstrong told them he had been bombarded with telegraph and telephone messages from widespread parts of the country since publication yesterday of the report that the negro's winning number had been thrown out and another drawing made. On the second drawing the car was awarded to Dr. Charles Townes, retired physician of Waverly, Va., already the owner of a Cadillac.

One of the telephone calls Armstrong received, he said, was from Senator Carl Hatch (D-NM) who declared he would denounce the Ahoskie Club's action on the Senate floor.

Western Powers, Reds May Tangle

LAKE SUCCESS, July 16 (AP) — Delegates to the United Nations economic and social council began assembling tonight for the council's fifth session which many expected to develop into a major fight between Russian and the Western powers over the Marshall Plan.

Preliminary discussions will begin at 11 a. m. (EDT) tomorrow when the agenda committee meets to consider the 36 items which have been placed on the provisional calendar. The council itself will hold its first meeting Saturday morning.

Will Resume Debate

Tomorrow's economic discussions will begin as the security council resumes debate on the Balkan question in which the United States is pressing for a showdown with Russia.

Authoritative sources said some U.N. delegations were considering the possibility of setting up a Greek border watch outside the world organization if Russia blocked action on the Balkans.

Delegates to the economic and social council were generally agreed that their forthcoming session would be the most critical in U.N. history as a result of the growing economic split between Russia and the Western Powers.

The Russians, headed by Prof. Alexander P. Morozov, were silent about their plans, but there appeared to be little doubt that they would carry to the council their fight against the British-French plans to implement the Marshall program.

Morozov already has indicated he would raise another highly controversial issue—a Soviet proposal to outlaw international loans for military purposes. This proposal, if adopted, would strike directly at the American program of aid to Greece and Turkey.

A member of the American delegation said it was highly possible that Russia might bring up Secretary of State Marshall's program of economic aid to Europe, even though this was not on the agenda as an item for debate.

Top members of the U. S. delegation still were in Washington, completing plans for the session. Assistant Secretary of State Willard L. Thorp, nominated to head the delegation, was ready to attend Saturday's session if his nomination was confirmed by the Senate in time. If it is delayed, Leroy Stinebower will sit in as acting chief.

British Send McNeil

The British will be represented by Minister of State Hector McNeil, but he was not expected here until Sunday or Monday. France will be represented by Pierre Mendes-France and China by Dr. P. C. Chang.

Major items before the council include:

Reports of the economic commission for Europe, the Economic Commission for Asia and the Far East, and the economic and employment commission.

Former OPA Chief Sees Price Tumble

WASHINGTON, July 16 (AP) — Leon Henderson, former OPA chief, said today the nation is headed for a price collapse rivalling the 1920-21 slump unless consumer buying power is jacked up, but Senator Taft (R-Ohio) flatly disagreed.

"Today, just as in 1920, prices have been permitted to get out of hand," Henderson told the joint Congressional Committee on the economic report. Then he predicted a tumble.

But Taft shook his head. "You've got a perfectly tremendous economy," the Republican leader said. "Everybody has more money than ever before."

Aid Conference Asked To Submit Foreign Property

PARIS, July 16 (AP) — France proposed to the European Economic Conference today that colonial resources of all member nations be included in drawing up the economic balance sheet in a co-ordinated reconstruction program under the Marshall Plan.

Addressing the opening session of the new organization's "co-operation" or Steering Committee, Herve Alphand of France said the 16 member nations should reckon overseas production of essential materials in compiling their needs and assets.

French sources said no opposition was expressed to this move which would encompass British Colonies, France's Territories in Africa, Asia and America, the Belgian Congo, Portuguese Colonies in Africa and Asia, Dutch Possessions, and even Denmark's Greenland.

British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin already has pledged Britain's colonial resources to continental co-operation.

Alphand's proposal was part of amore Comprehensive French project on procedure which the committee is to take up for decision at its next session tomorrow. This eight-section project, in the form of a questionnaire to be submitted to participating governments, even suggested that the assistance needed to increase colonial production of fats, woods, minerals and other materials be tallied.

The questionnaire would give the committee data on difficulties due to the war such as destruction and loss of population; accomplishments by each nation for its own reconstruction; contributions which have been made or will be made to the reconstruction of other nations; reconstruction efforts projected for the next four years; a tally of the surpluses and deficits of each nation in foodstuffs and raw materials; estimated import needs and export possibilities in mechanical equipment and industrial products; estimates of the mode of balance payments; contributions each could make to other nations under such headlines as credits, manpower, migration.

Senate Votes Freeze Of Social Security

WASHINGTON, July 16 (AP)—Legislation freezing the Social Security tax for the next two years at the present rate of one per cent each on employes and employers was passed by the Senate today in amended form and sent back to the House.

Without the legislation, the tax rate would rise automatically next January 1 to two and one-half per cent on each.

The House had voted to allow the rate to go up to one and one-half per cent for the years 1950 through 1956, and to two per cent thereafter. The Senate Finance Committee recommended, however, that Congress postpone permanent changes in Social Security laws pending a complete study of rates, costs and coverage.

With the rate frozen at one per cent since 1937, approximately $8,700,000,000 has accumulated in the Old Age and Survivors Insurance Trust Fund. The fund's income in fiscal 1947 was $1,565,000,000, with disbursements estimated at $464,000,000 for the same period.

Truman Offers Plan To Check Waters Of Miss.

Asks $250 Million To Get Work Going

WASHINGTON, July 16 (AP) — A quick start on a 10-year program to check floods in the entire Mississippi basin and put the mighty waters to productive uses was urged by President Truman in a special message to Congress.

He asked $250,000,000 to get the work started.

Citing the long history of Mid-West flood tragedies, the Chief Executive declared that flood control is a problem of "desperate urgency."

Gets Quick Support

"We can accomplish nothing by piecemeal if we are to control our great floods."

Senator Revercomb (R-WVa) said that as a member of the Public Works Committee which handles flood-control legislation he "wholeheartedly" endorses the plan "to proceed with reasonable speed" toward execution of the program.

Senator McClellan (D-Ark) declared that to withhold or slash appropriations for flood-control work is "extravagant waste rather than sound economy."

In his message, Mr. Truman spoke not only of the destructive fury of the flood waters but also of their potential value.

"The major opportunity of our generation to increase the wealth of the nation lies in the development of [illegible] river systems," he said.

But for many years now, he continued, the flood-swollen waters of the Mississippi and its great tributaries—the Missouri, Ohio, Arkansas and Red Rivers—have dealt the nation's economy a series of blows, both in lives and property, which "call strongly for the prompt use of more effective counter-measures."

"Must Pay Price"

"The drainage basin of the Mississippi River and its tributaries comprises nearly half of the nation in area and population,' Mr. Truman said.

"It is a rich central core from which stem goods and services vital to the entire country. x x x Nature also requires the use of these flood plains for drainage. Consequently, we must pay the price for occupancy of these lands, either in the form of continued flood damage or in preventative measures."

In urging speed to combat what he termed "this continued threat," Mr. Truman said that most of the necessary projects have already been authorized by Congress, but he said the 10-year program should also contain a smaller group of projects which have not yet been authorized. The projects, he said, are now being "planned and investigated."

England Worries About Wedding

LONDON, July 16 (AP) — Should Princess Elizabeth's wedding be a big one, with dancing in the streets and fireworks at night, or a simple little affair with only a few thousand guests and the second-best silverware?

This austerity versus glamor debate waxed hot over the nation's teacups today and spilled over into the letters-to-the-editor columns.

"If Princess Elizabeth were to have a quiet wedding and not waste a lot of money and time, maybe it would encourage us to carry on working harder," a Yorkshire factory worker wrote to the Daily Mirror.

"Away with austerity—let us make it a day she, and all of us, will remember," urged a writer to the Daily Express.

By the Daily Express' count, six Britons favor a wedding with all the trimmings—to help people forget the drabness of life amid bomb ruins and shortages—for every one who holds that a modest affair would be more suitable in the present economic crisis.

But some criticism was voiced of last week's rejoicing over the announcement of Elizabeth's betrothal to Lt. Philip Mountbatten. A London suburban woman wrote to the Daily Mirror.

"I don't dislike the royal family. They are a grand example to the country, but I cannot help feeling it would be good if they lived more simply.

"Is it right that Princess Elizabeth should have 60,000 pounds ($240,000) a year and her husband 15,000 ($60,000) when we are on the verge of bankruptcy?"

Be that as it may, the Elizabeth-Philip romance was putting ideas into a lot of people's heads. A bond Street marriage broker reported business was up 60 per cent and happily gave full credit to the Princess for setting the example.

Probe Of Kilgore Election Ordered

Fraud Is Charged In W. Va., Voting

WASHINGTON, July 16 (AP)—The Senate Rules Committee unanimously authorized a "full and complete" investigation into alleged frauds in the 1946 election of Senator Kilgore, Democrat of West Virginia.

Chairman Jenner (R-Ind.) of the subcommittee which recommended the investigation after a spot check in two West Virginia Counties, told reporters after a closed session of the rules committee that the latter also unanimously approved a resolution asking the Senate for $95,000,000 additional funds for the probe.

Thomas Sweeney, a Republican, is contesting Kilgore's election, charging fraud and irregularities. Kilgore won the election by an official state margin of 3,534 votes out of a total of more than 500,000 cast.

"Vote Frauds" Apparent

The Rules Committee found that "it appears" from preliminary investigation that "vote frauds, election irregularities and the purchase of votes were prevalent" in the election.

The investigation will be conducted in the 12 counties cited by Sweeney in his complaint. They are: Boone, Cabell, Fayette, Kanawha, Logan, Mercer, Mingo, Monroe, McDowell, Raleigh, Wayne and Wyoming.

Jenner said the investigation would not concern other counties in the state.

Jenner also announced replacement of Jack W. Hardy as the committee's chief counsel for the investigation and said Nelson Deranian would take over the work.

Hardy last week told a reporter that a preliminary check in Kanawha and Raleigh counties showed that votes has been bought for "$2 and up and whisky."

Jenner declined to elaborate today when asked about specific instances of alleged fraud revealed to the full committee. He said only "enough evidence of fraud was found to go ahead."

Kilgore was not immediately available but his office said there would be no comment.

Enlarging Staff

The Rules Committee specified that the investigating staff in the field be enlarged "as required" to complete the work at an average monthly cost for salaries and authorized expenses not to exceed $13,000 a month.

Atomic Ladling In Control Plan Sought By Russia

Gromyko Wants Atom Quota System Set Up

LAKE SUCCESS, July 16 (AP)—Soviet Russia called today for a third atomic convention which would set up a quota system for ladling out atomic materials to countries taking part in a world-wide control plan.

In a surprise declaration to a closed meeting of the Political Committee of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission, Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister, declared that a quota system should be established by a special convention. This convention, he said, should contain the points on which nations could assume their obligations in the quota set-up.

Gromyko already has proposed two conventions to the U. N. The first would ban atomic weapons immediately. The second would establish controls for atomic energy under an international control organ.

Delegates and newsmen at first interpreted Gromyko to mean the quota system should apply to distribution among the nations bearing atomic materials.

42 Genoa Children Die In Boat Accident

GENOA, July 16 (AP) — Forty-two children drowned today when a boat in which they were sailing struck an underwater fortification, overturned and sank near Loano, southwest of Savona off the Ligurian coast.

Forty other children on the boat, the property of a summer vacation camp, were saved by coast guardsmen and fishermen. The children and four teachers were all from Milan. Two of the teachers drowned and a third is missing.

Invites 11 Nations To Meet August 19

WASHINGTON, July 16—(AP)—The United States challenged Russia and the other great powers today to give up their veto rights in drafting a peace treaty for Japan. It also suggested that a conference to begin work on the treaty be held here or in San Francisco beginning August 19.

The proposal for the conference was announced by the State Department. In addition to changing the voting procedure from that followed by the great powers in working on the German, Austrian and European satellite treaties, the American proposal would put original treaty drafting into the hands of 11 nations instead of simply the big powers.

British Approve

In London, authoritative British sources expressed qualified approval of United States proposal. It was indicated, however, that Britain might question the date for the conference because it might conflict with a British Empire Conference on Japanese problems, scheduled for August 26 in Canberra, Australia.

Diplomatic authorities predicted that France and China would accept the American suggestions.

However, there was considerable uncertainty whether Russia would go along. Secretary of State Marshall was asked at a news conference today whether the United States would follow the proposed procedure or would allow it to be delayed indefinitely by a Soviet rejection. Marshall said he would have to wait until such a situation arose before discusing it.

The 10 nations to which the United States made the proposal for an early start on the Japanese treaty are Britain, Russia, China, the Philippines, India, Australia, New Zealand, France, the Netherlands and Canada. These and the United States compose the Far Eastern Commission here and are considered to be the 11 countries which made the greatest contributions in the war against Japan.

In the commission each of the "big four" of the Far East—America, Britain, China and Russia—has a veto power over decisions. By inviting the nations individually and suggesting a different voting procedure, the United States is moving to get away from this veto power.

American opposition to the veto is based on official feeling here that it has been used by Russia in European treaty making to delay progress. It is contended that in drafting a Japanese treaty decisions should be reached by a simple two-thirds vote.

Today's formal announcement, which did not disclose the voting suggestion although officials privately described how that would work, discussed the desirability of having the initial treaty drafting done by more than simply the big powers.

Conference Advocated

"An eleven power conference is advocated," the announcement said, "because it would provide a broad representative basis of participation

Marshall Would Admit Refugees

WASHINGTON, July 16 (AP) — Secretary of State Marshall asked Congress today to open the doors to at least 100,000 European war refugees within the next 12 months to demonstrate that "we are not retreating behind the Atlantic Ocean."

This is necessary in part, he said, to remove a source of "conflict and friction" with Russia.

Marshall told a House Judiciary Subcommittee that to yield to repeated Soviet demands for the forcible return of "these allies of ours" from Germany to their pre-war homes would violate both American tradition and United Nations principles.

On the other hand, he continued, Congressional approval of a bill to admit 400,000 displaced persons to this country over a four-year period "will have an important bearing on our foreign policy."

In the face of a tentative decision to shunt the bill over to the next session, Marshall indicated his willingness to accept now a modified measure for admission of only 100,000. He said it would be "a lot better than nothing."

The subcommittee also:

1. Heard Secretary of War Patterson say that resettlement of Europe's approximate 900,000 refugees would be "a significant factor in promotion of world peace."

2. Received a statement from Secretary of Commerce Harriman declaring that "the procrastination which has so far characterized our national conduct on this problem reflects little credit upon ourselves x x x."

3. Decided to call Attorney General Tom Clark on Friday to answer questions on what could be done to prevent spies or persons with subversive ideologies from gaining entry among the displaced persons if and when the bill is passed. Clark already has endorsed the measure.

Greek Army Begins New Hill Attack

300 Guerrillas Reported Killed

ATHENS, July 16 (AP)—Supported by planes and heavy gunfire, the Greek Army launched a full-scale attack late today on approximately 2,500 guerrillas in the hills north of Ioannina, near the Albanian frontier, military sources reported.

Three hundred irregulars were reported wiped out in one engagement. The main guerilla force was believed withdrawing eastward in an attempt to make a junction with other leftists fighting in the Grammos Mountain Range.

In Hot Pursuit

Military sources said the army and strafing planes were in hot pursuit, and that infantrymen were eliminating rear-guard forces left behind to cover the withdrawal.

The attack was launched following a heavy bombardment and strafing of the slopes of Mount Gamila and an area including the villages of Kato, Pedina, Ano, Elatohori, Paleolioutsa and Asprangelos where the guerrillas earlier were reported encircled.

The only serious resistance was encountered in the vicinity of Elathori and Asprangelos, approximately 19 miles from Ioannina, where 300 guerrillas were said to have been wiped out.

The guerrillas were part of a force which the government said invaded Greece from Albania and attempted to march on Ioannina, capital of Epirus and a strategic city of 20,000 near the Albanian frontier.

Earlier government reports from the fighting front indicated that 4,500 regulars—many of them airborne reinforcements — had closed the jaws of a trap on the guerrillas in the vicinity of Mount Gamila, near the village of Negradhes, where the Leftists were halted yesterday.

Report "Foreigners" Fighting

Napoleon Zervas, Minister of Public Order, said that statements made by prisoners asserted that two of eight battalions in the attack were "foreigners." The invaders, Zervas said, were excellently equipped with heavy machine guns and mortars.

Sources in government circles said there was a possibility Greece would request American permission to use additional Truman Doctrine funds to more than double the size of the Greek Army.

Marshall Anxious To See Ruhr Coal Output Increased

WASHINGTON, July 16 (AP)—Secretary of State Marshall today pictured German coal as essential to European recovery and declared the United States is anxious to see Ruhr coal production increased.

To that end, he told a news conference, British and American experts will meet the latter part of next week in conferences here.

In London, authoritative persons indicated the British may ask the United States at this meeting to assume a greater share of the burden of feeding and administering the combined British-American Zones in the conquered nations.

The additional cost for the American taxpayers would be between $250,000,000 and $350,000,000 over the next two years if this government agrees to the request, it was estimated. The costs now are shared half and half, but Britain is expected to tell this country that her own strained resources will not permit her to carry this much of the load.

Marshall recently was asked whether the United States would consider it if such a request were made. He replied it would be considered but he did not say whether the American attitude would be favorable.

At today's conference, Marshall was asked whether the United States will send officials to the Paris Economic Conference to give a hand toward fitting Germany into the European Economic Program. He said the initiative is that of the Europeans and that is the way he would desire it to be.

Other officials said that General Lucius B. Clay, American commander in Germany, has been instructed to co-operate as far as necessary to help the Paris conference in dealing with the American Occupation Zone. Thus the United States might lend a hand to committees supplying facts on the German economy.

Fail, However, To Endorse His European Plan

Approve Universal Military Training

SALT LAKE CITY, July 16 (AP) —The Governors' Conference called tonight for a non-partisan peace-seeking foreign policy and expressed "faith and confidence" in Secretary of State Marshall.

In a generalized statement on foreign policy, the governors of 46 states avoided any specific endorsement of Marshall's European rehabilitation program.

They adopted, however, a resolution which said:

"To the Secretary of State, Hon. George C. Marshall, we express our faith and confidence and our deep appreciation for his inspiring address to the conference."

Delivered Address Monday

Marshall had addressed the governors Monday night urging support of proposals to extend economic aid to the European Countries.

Before they closed a four-day session tonight the governors approved a resolution urging universal military training in which the facilities of the national guard would be utilized "to the greatest extent possible."

The foreign policy resolution noted that American strength in the world today "is largely dependent upon the solidarity of the citizens of our sovereign states, particularly in their relations with foreign countries."

The foreign policy of this country is intimately related to the support of our historic liberties," the resolution said, adding:

"Therefore, the Governors conference hereby asserts its conviction that the foreign policy of this country transcends in importance all partisan, personal or political considerations and should be at all times an American foreign policy, representative of the best in America and representing the United States to the nations of the world as a country that seeks peace and is united in its determination to protect the inalienable rights and privileges that our citizens now enjoy."

Approved Earlier

The foreign policy resolution, written by Gov. Alfred J. Driscoll, New Jersey Republican, originally had contained the expression of confidence in Marshall when it was approved earlier in the day by the conference's resolutions committee.

In the closed session of all the governors when it was adopted, however, the Marshall appreciation portion was transfered to another general resolution of appreciation and his name deleted from the foreign policy pledge.

Man, 39, Arrested For Raping Child

CATONSVILLE, Md., July 16—(AP) —A Spring Grove State Hospital attendant charged with the rape of an 11-year-old girl was being held in an undisclosed jail today.

The man, identified as Roy Lee Lethco, 39, a native of Raleigh, N. C., was arrested by a posse yesterday after the girl had been found in a wooded area near this suburban Baltimore Community.

After news of the case and the arrest of the man spread through Catonsville, a large crowd gathered, and police spirited him away.

Police Lt. Joseph E. Sarsitis said Lethco also was being questioned in the death of Anne Ryan, 14, whose body was found yesterday in a Patapsco River mill race near Catonsville.

She had been missing from her home two days. After an autopsy, a Baltimore County Medical Examiner's report said she was drowned.

There were no evidences of violence.

State Care For Russian Children Has Its Beginning At Conception

NEW YORK, July 16 (AP) — The Russian state medical system for care of children which starts with the first known day of pregnancy was described to the third international pediatrics congress today by Dr. A. F. Tour, professor of child diseases at the Leningrad Pediatric Medical Institute.

Two new types of medical institutions have been developed by the Russians.

First is the medical consultation station for women. A woman goes there as soon as she knows she is pregnant. She is taught baby care and given any medical care needed including that for diseases not directly connected with pregnancy. Later, where possible, she is sent to a gynecological clinic and hospital to have her baby.

Tour said in large cities and workers settlements 100 per cent of the women are provided with obstetrical assistance.

The second new institution is the childrens' consultation station. Each station has a district and Tour said each tries to provide 100 per cent care for young children in the district.

Also, not common in most countries, this station tries to care for psychic or mental development.

Negro Who Was Denied Car He Won In Raffle Will Be Given Cadillac

AHOSKIE, N. C., July 16 (AP) — The Ahoskie Kiwanis Club, spurred on by a mounting wave of protests, decided today to provide a $3,200 Cadillac automobile for Harvey Jones, the 25-year-old negro war veteran, who held the lucky number in the club's raffle of such a car last week but who was told after the drawing that negroes were not eligible for the prize.

Directors of the club acted after receiving a telephone call from their international president, Dr. Carl W. Armstrong of Salisbury, urging them to see that Jones received a car identical with the one given away in the lottery.

Armstrong told them he had been bombarded with telegraph and telephone messages from widespread parts of the country since publication yesterday of the report that the negro's winning number had been thrown out and another drawing made. On the second drawing the car was awarded to Dr. Charles Townes, retired physician of Waverly, Va., already the owner of a Cadillac.

One of the telephone calls Armstrong received, he said, was from Senator Carl Hatch (D-NM) who declared he would denounce the Ahoskie Club's action on the Senate floor.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

Billy Rose

I have a good mind to get myself a Flit gun and go to work on the RKO press department. For the past couple of weeks, I've been reading their pre-opening advertisements for the new picture, "Crossfire."

I think these ads are pretty stale. They employ such chewed-over phrases as "It's Sensational! It's Dynamite! It's Coming!.. They make it sound like just another cops-and-robbers program picture. In effect, they say to the Customer, "If you feel like killing a couple of hours watching another well-made shoot-'em-up, we got it."

I'll tell you how come I'm mad.

I recently saw a preview of "Crossfire." Around reel two, I realized I was looking at a Hollywood picture which had the guts to be important. Out of the land of flapdoodle and nymphomania had finally come a movie which had something to say and wasn't afraid to say it. And it was saying it with boxing gloves, not dancing pumps.

"Crossfire" is about a big, mean Army sergeant who hates "Jewboys" and beats one of them—a veteran—to death.

The story is expertly told in terms of murder melodrama. It would still be an exciting movie if it revolved around jewels, rather than Jews.

It has one scene which I don't think audiences will forget in a hurry. The detective is asked why he's anxious to capture the killer of the Jewish boy. Is he Jewish himself? The cop answers that back in 1848 his great grandfather—an Irish immigrant — had his skull caved in by a couple of Pennsylvania bigots who didn't like the idea of Catholics coming to America. He says he thinks it's important to fix it so it isn't safe to go around killing people because you don't like the church they go to or the amount of sunburn on their skin.

I first started looking at movies on an open lot up in the Bronx something like forty years ago. "Crossfire" is the first Hollywood picture I remember seeing which has had the courage to speak right out about something that 140,000,000 people have been thinking about for a long time—race hatred.

It's one of the few times the film makers have demonstrated they read anything except their quarterly financial statements. "Crossfire" is much too important a picture to be advertised like a catch-penny pot-boiler. On 18,000 screens it can do more good than a whole passel of tolerance societies with fancy names on the stationery.

"Crossfire" is presented by Dore Schary, the new RKO boss. It took a lot of nerve to make it. Now that it's made, I think it sick-making that some Eastern promotion executive hasn't got the moxie to advertise it for what it is.

Even in terms of dollars and cents, I think he's a chump. My guess as a showman is that this 'fraidy-cat policy will cost this movie at least a million domestic at the box office. A smart and literate job of pre-selling it would be a cinch to create the kind of talk that fills theatres.

And I'd like to see "Crossfire" play to a lot of people. I think an occasional departure from passion, platitudes and popcorn can only make our screens more interesting. Once a month I think Joe Citizen and his missus should be able to walk into an American movie theatre without checking their minds at the door.

When you see "Crossfire," I think you'll be proud it could have been made in this country.

It has one scene which I don't think audiences will forget in a hurry. The detective is asked why he's anxious to capture the killer of the Jewish boy. Is he Jewish himself? The cop answers that back in 1848 his great grandfather—an Irish immigrant — had his skull caved in by a couple of Pennsylvania bigots who didn't like the idea of Catholics coming to America. He says he thinks it's important to fix it so it isn't safe to go around killing people because you don't like the church they go to or the amount of sunburn on their skin.

I first started looking at movies on an open lot up in the Bronx something like forty years ago. "Crossfire" is the first Hollywood picture I remember seeing which has had the courage to speak right out about something that 140,000,000 people have been thinking about for a long time—race hatred.

It's one of the few times the film makers have demonstrated they read anything except their quarterly financial statements. "Crossfire" is much too important a picture to be advertised like a catch-penny pot-boiler. On 18,000 screens it can do more good than a whole passel of tolerance societies with fancy names on the stationery.

"Crossfire" is presented by Dore Schary, the new RKO boss. It took a lot of nerve to make it. Now that it's made, I think it sick-making that some Eastern promotion executive hasn't got the moxie to advertise it for what it is.

Even in terms of dollars and cents, I think he's a chump. My guess as a showman is that this 'fraidy-cat policy will cost this movie at least a million domestic at the box office. A smart and literate job of pre-selling it would be a cinch to create the kind of talk that fills theatres.

And I'd like to see "Crossfire" play to a lot of people. I think an occasional departure from passion, platitudes and popcorn can only make our screens more interesting. Once a month I think Joe Citizen and his missus should be able to walk into an American movie theatre without checking their minds at the door.

When you see "Crossfire," I think you'll be proud it could have been made in this country.

FARMERS WARNED TO DUST TOMATO CROP

The Weather Bureau said yesterday that the cool weather, heavy dew and frequent showers have facilitated the spread of tomato blight and farmers are warned to spray or dust their plants.

The report also said that Allegany and Garrett County wheat crops have been hampered by frequent showers but the crop is coming along rapidly with yields generally good. Corn, however, has responded favorably to the wet weather and is in excellent condition. Truck gardens, also, are in good shape.

Peas, tomatoes and early corn were reported progressing while early apples are irregular with some failures being reported.

The report, covering the seven day period ending Monday, noted that generally temperatures averaged about three degrees above normal in southern counties and two or three degrees below normal in western counties.

Paint Company Head Named B. And O. Director

NEW YORK, N. Y., July 16 — Arthur W. Steudel, president of the Sherwin-Williams Paint Company of Cleveland, was elected a member of the board of directors of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at its meeting held here today, according to an announcement made by Roy B. White, B. and O. president. He succeeds Crispin Oglebay, shop and mine owner, also of Cleveland; who resigned recently from the board.

Mr. Steudel was born in Cleveland and after public school training entered the service of Sherwin-Williams at the age of 17 and has been associated with them since that time. His election continues the policy of the Baltimore and Ohio to invite business men of the principal cities served by the railroad to serve on its board.

Educational Finance Act Of 1947 Should Be Defeated

Now and then one or more of the various groups within the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce come up with some sound suggestion regarding policies under discussion, or give approval or disapproval of this or that, accompanied by convincing reasons for the action. The recent adoption of a resolution by the Legislative Committee of the C. of C. opposing the Educational Finance Act of 1947, which proposes to give the states annually $300,000,000 for educational purposes is a good example.

Passage of this bill would give the Federal government its first foothold in the primary and secondary educational systems of the forty-eight states. It raises a major question of policy which goes to the very heart of our Federal system of government.

Our local educational systems are the bulwark of our democratic institutions. To keep them so we must keep them free from Federal interference. To give the Federal government any control over our local educational systems is a move which may lead to the destruction of the States as units in our Federal system.

In every country where Fascist, Communist and other dictatorial governments have gained power, they have had control of the educational system and through this control have been able to indoctrinate the minds of the youth with their propaganda and thus perpetuate their power. That must not happen here.

The Bill in Section 2 states that no Federal agency shall exercise any direction, supervision or control over or prescribe any requirements with respect to any school or State educational institution or agency. Yet, on the other hand, the Bill in Section 7 lists certain provisions a State must fulfill "in order to qualify for receiving funds appropriated under this act." This is control.

Every state shall report annually to Congress by November 1 a detailed statement of the amount received from the Federal government and its disbursements. This, too, is control.

An audit by the state is required covering the expenditure of funds received and apportioned to local school jurisdictions, as well as a system of local reports from local school jurisdictions, and other public educational agencies. Again, that is control.

Every state shall make reports to the Commissioner on Education with respect to the progress of education on forms to be provided by the Commissioner. This is control.

Every state shall send to the Commissioner official notice of acceptance and the official regulations that may be issued by the state educational authority in connection with such funds. Control, pure and simple.

Funds will be allotted only to those states that in any given year spend as much as the total amount or the amount per pupil in average daily attendance, actually spent for such purposes in the fiscal year 1947. Further, the states are to make payments only to those local school jurisdictions which pay average monthly salaries to their teachers not less than the average monthly salaries paid as of February 1, 1947. That is control.

It is certainly reasonable to judge from this list of requirements that the primary purpose of the bill is Federal control over education. If the Federal government pays the bills it will sooner or later dictate the program to be followed. This has been the case with other Federal grants-in-aid. There is no reason to believe its participation in the costs of education would fall into a different category. Education is a local function. It must remain a local function. We must not surrender this control to Washington.

This proposal runs counter to our time-honored traditions and the inalienable rights and responsibilities of parents to mold the minds and characters of their children. With education administered by local school boards, parents can, if necessary, exercise a proper control over the education of their children. If the Federal government gains control over education, parental responsibility will be surrendered to a Federal bureau. Parental control, for all practical purposes, will cease.

It is significant that no State legislature has petitioned Congress for assistance. The entire pressure for Federal aid is being pushed by representatives of the teachers and other educational interests. It is true that the teachers are underpaid in some states, but then, too, so are many other white collar workers. The proponents of this bill should, as did the teachers in Maryland, address themselves to their State and local governments—not to the Federal government.

This bill should receive the stubborn opposition of every tax payer in Maryland. Clubs, Service and Civic organizations should follow the policy of the Chamber of Commerce group in opposing passage of this bill by writing their Senators and Congressmen from this state, urging them to vote against its passage.

More About Lincoln

On Saturday, July 26, three safes in the Library of Congress which hold hitherto secret Lincoln papers will be opened—an event for which many persons have waited with mounting interest over a long period of years.

The papers were deposited there by Abraham Lincoln's son, Robert Todd Lincoln, in May, 1919, with the stipulation they were not to be made public until 21 years after his death. He died July 26, 1926.

One of the subjects on which historians seek more information is that of Secretary of War Stanton. Otto Eisenschiml, in his book, "Why Was Lincoln Murdered?" advanced the possibility that Stanton might have been involved in the John Wilkes Booth plot. The papers may contain material on this matter.

Other subjects on which scholars hope more light may be thrown are events in Lincoln's own family, the start of the Civil War and the attack on Ft. Sumter.

The millions who revere the Emancipator, as well as historians, will be eager to learn more about a great national figure.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

"MUSCULAR RHEUMATISM"

THE term "muscular rheumatism" is not exactly specific but is used by many laymen to indicate aching in the muscles or joints of the body. Physicians, on the other hand, attempt to discover which particular structure is involved.

As a rule, the site of the trouble is the fibrous tissue which covers not only the muscles but actually courses between the individual cells. In addition, sheaths of this substance surround the bones, ligaments, nerves, and joints. Since it is packed so closely, any swelling—even though of microscopic dimensions—will produce pain.

Such puffiness can follow infection or injury but in most instances more trivial causes are responsible. Acute attacks can be precipitated by over-exercise. Exposure to cold may likewise be to blame and some persons complain of stiffness of the neck or shoulder or arm pain after riding in a car or train with the window open. The chronic type may be traced to trauma but is more likely to be due to infection. Bacteria reach the affected region through the blood stream of lymphatic structures.

The type of discomfort varies and may resemble the dull ache of a bruise or be sharp, severe, and cramplike. Some areas are more predisposed than others to the disorder. Lumbago is often due to fibrositis. It generally comes on suddenly and may be so incapacitating that any movement such as stooping or turning causes excruciating distress. In stiff neck, the structures on one side or the other are attacked. The sufferer characteristically holds the head in a peculiar position and in order to look to the right or left, will rotate the whole trunk rather than the head. When the muscles in the back of the neck are affected, pain is indistinguishable from headache and may resemble migraine especially when it recurs periodically.

The fibrous tissue about the muscles between the ribs may also be deranged. The condition—pleurodynia— is one of the most distressing forms, as the chest cannot be put at rest. Consequently with each deep breath or on coughing, the manifestations are aggravated. Various aches and pains in the extremities may be due to fibrositis and the physician can usually differentiate this malady from disturbances of the joints, nerves, bones, and blood vessels.

Rest promotes healing hence movements should be minimized. When the back or chest are afflicted, strapping with adhesive tape is helpful. In addition, the parts should be protected from cold. Furthermore, heat—in the form of an electric pad, hot towels, or infrared lamp—will be useful.

Painkilling drugs are frequently required. Occasionally an injection of novocaine or a similar preparation directly into the inflamed spot affords relief. In the chronic variety, the physician usually searches for foci of infection and, when the invaders are eliminated, dramatic results are sometimes encountered. Since one bout makes the individual more susceptible to others, he should wear warm clothes and avoid exposure to cold and dampness.

VEIN DISORDER

J. H. writes: Are phlebitis and the stoppage of blood the same thing?

REPLY

Phlebitis is inflammation of a vein, a condition which often leads to clot formation. This in turn may obstruct the involved vessel but will have no effect on the other veins, the arteries, or the capillaries.

HEAT FOR DISCOMFORT

M. O. N. writes: Is it helpful to put a hot water bottle on the stomach when indigestion occurs?

REPLY

Yes, if spasm is responsible for the symptom. On the other hand, if distress persists or recurs, X-rays and other procedures will be necessary to determine the true cause.

UP AND ABOUT

C. W. writes. What is meant by ambulant treatment?

REPLY

Treatment that is given without confining the patient to bed—for example, an office call instead of hospitalization.

With so many new producers in Hollywood they're having a difficult time finding enough theaters in which to show all the movies. The manager used to worry about his patrons sneaking their children into the theater. Now he has to worry about producers sneaking their films into the projection room.

They used to hand out dishes to promote pictures. Now the only way they can get you to see them in to send you a few reels and home projector.

They're showing pictures in various places according to their classification. Westerns in barns, the sophisticated dramas in New York subways and my pictures . . . Well, I won't say where they're showing them, but you can't leave without tipping are attendant a quarter.

Truman Reminds Marshall That White House Statements Cannot Be Ignored; General, Charged With Drunken Driving, Transferred From Trial

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON.—President Truman and his Secretary of State, Gen. George Marshall, have had their first difference on foreign policy. The issue was Palestine.

A short time ago, the President was informed that State Department officials were ignoring his statements regarding a Jewish homeland, to some extent steering an opposite course from that fixed by the President of the United States.

Members of Congress who conferred with the new Undersecretary of State Robert Lovett and even with Marshall himself reported back to the White House that they were told the United States had no policy on Palestine. The United States, they were informed, would have to wait until the General Assembly of the United Nations meets in September in order to fix policy.

Meanwhile, President Truman had made a strong statement on Palestine stressing American sympathy for the idea of a Jewish homeland. Despite this, a group of Senators calling at the State Department were informed that the United States still had no Palestine policy.

As a result, Truman called in General Marshall, informed him that the U. S. very definitely does have a Palestine policy. Statements made by the President of the United States, he said, constitute American foreign policy and are to be followed by the State Department.

Secretary Marshall agreed and asked if the President would like to have him make a special statement to the press on Palestine. Truman thought it was too late for this and the matter was dropped. There was no personal row and the two men remain as good friends as ever.

General Doesn't Go To Trial

Democratic director Gael Sullivan should take a tip from the Army when it comes to charges of drunken driving. Sullivan, driving from Washington, D. C., to his home in Woonsocket, R. I., went off the road. A teetotaller, Sullivan was charged with drunken driving, claimed he went asleep at the wheel. The court compromised with $100 fine, plus $100,000 worth of bad publicity.

In contrast, Brig. Gen. August W. Kissner was arrested for drunken driving in Washington on April 17, but has not yet been brought to trial.

General Kissner, however, had powerful friends. They included his superior, Maj. Gen. Curtis E. Le May, Capt. Mark H. Raspberry of the National Park Police and Carlton Skinner, public relations counsel of the Interior Department. These friendships partly derived from the fact that General Kissner had been the flying companion of Secretary of the Interior Krug when the latter took his trans-Pacific trip last summer.

Following the General's arrest, Captain Raspberry and Mr. Skinner accompanied him to the D. C. corporation council's office and pled that the charges be dropped. The corporation counsel, however,, refused. Instead, he ordered a jury trial for April 18.

That jury trial has never been held. It was first postponed to April 28, then to May 19. Meanwhile, the Army very conveniently transferred General Kissner to Germany.

If the General had been an enlisted man, the story might have been different.

NOTE—The District of Columbia is still awaiting the return of General Kissner to bring him to trial. However, it may have a long time to wait. When the Justice Department tried to get Secretary of War Patterson to surrender Col. Freeman Burford of Texas to face trial, Patterson refused. Burford was under criminal indictment in connection with the Louisiana oil scandals in which ex-Gov. Richard Leche was jailed. Colonel Burford still under indictment, has never yet been tried.

Death of an Ambassador

Final chapter in a paradoxical tragedy took place this week when the body of the late Greek Ambassador, Cimon Diamontopoulos, was flown on President Truman's new plane back to Greece.

Ambassador Diamontopoulos died a few hours after a conference with Secretary of State Byrnes at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York last December. Reports have since circulated that the Ambassador was shocked over some of the things his Prime Minister, Constantin Tsaldaris, who participated in the conference, said to Byrnes. However, here is the actual story of what happened.

Premier Tsaldaris had been begging Byrnes to give Greece more teritory at the expense of Bulgaria. This Byrnes refused to do, pointing to the territorial mistakes made in the peace treaties of the last war.

Finaly, during the last Tsaldaris-Byrnes conference, the Greek Premier looked tired, worn, and so nervous that at one point he broke into tears. Feeling sorry for him, Byrnes gave some practical suggestions on how to present a petition to the Big Four foreign ministers, and then turning to the much healthier looking Ambassador Diamontopoulos, he said:

"Get the Ambassador here to prepare the papers for you. He is familiar with the situation and can save you a lot of time and work."

The two Greek diplomats left. A few hours later, Ambassador Diamontopoulos, who had appeared to be in the best of health, was dead of heart failure. Premier Tsaldaris, who had then seemed on the verge of a breakdown, is still carrying on as Foreign Minister of Greece.

Truman's Comments On High Prices Called Inconsistent

By MARK SULLIVAN

Immediately after a wage-raise was granted to coal miners, there arose penciling and calculating about the effect on prices, not merely of coal but all sorts of goods into the making of which coal enters directly or indirectly, especially steel.

To this, President Truman chipped in. His contribution took a double form, assurance to the public and admonition to heads of industry. He spoke of "deep concern being expressed in many quarters" over what he softly phrased as "possible results" of the wage-increase. He said it is "widely feared" that the wage-increase might "renew the inflationary spiral." But, Mr. Truman assured, "such a blow need not fall upon us." For presenting the blow, Mr. Truman admonished heads of industry to wait to see what the actual cost of the wage-raise will be, strongly implying that it need not be great. In general, Mr. Truman admonished industry head to refrain from or minimize increases in prices.

Public Confidence Needed

Presidential admonition is a useful lever in the mechanism of democracy. Its serviceableness is dependent however upon public confidence in presidential utterances, and upon consistency of actions of the Administration which the President heads. In this regard Mr. Truman, as respects preachments against inflation, is in some risk of overdrawing his account.

Technically and word by word, Mr. Truman's present admonition is sound enough. But any utterance is read by the public in the light of contexts and background, both of the utterance and the utterer.

Mr. Truman makes his admonition "in view of the uncertainty as to whether, or how much, costs of coal may be increased" by the wage-raise. Until this is known, he says, "the people of the country have the right to demand that their prosperity shall not be imperiled by immediate increases in the price of coal and in the price of steel"

Of all persons who might use the word "uncertainty" in this connection, Mr. Truman is about to be last. By personal experience, by actions in which he personally took part and which he initiated, he should have no doubt about either the certainty of increased costs and prices, or the immediacy of them.

A year and a half ago Mr. Truman personally intervened in a wage controversy between the steel industry and the steel workers' unions. Against what was then the position of the steel industry, Mr. Truman brought about a raise of some 18½ cents per hour for steel workers. Immediately and concurrently, in order to pay the cost of the wage-raise, the Truman Administration, which then had official control over prices, decreed an increase of $5 a ton in the price of steel.

A little later occurred another case, which should be almost equally vivid in Mr. Truman's memory, and equally make him immune against any uncertainty. On a single day in June 1945, an Administration agency, the Office of Economic Stabilization handed down two decisions—one an increase of $1.37½ a day in the wages of coal miners, the other an increase of 75 cents a ton in the price of coal. The effect of the wage-raise did not wait, as Mr. Truman in the present case says it should; the wage-raise and price increase were simultaneous, and both were actions of the Administration.

Government Policy Questioned

What most gives an atmosphere of inconsistency to all Mr. Truman's preachments against high prices, frequent and urgent during several months past is the practice and policy of the Government itself about the prices that are highest of all. In our whole economy, the prices that are highest—the "most out of line" is a soft phrase used for it—are those of farm products, food. These prices the government officially and energetically keeps up. In practically every farm product, from wheat and milk to potatoes and peanuts, the government has "price support" mechanisms of several kinds—including, in the case of potatoes, purchased by the government for the specific and avowed purpose of preventing the price from going down, and destruction of some of those purchased. All at a cost of hundreds of millions of dollars out of the federal treasury.

To a public painfully aware of the high prices of food; and aware also that high prices of food make high cost of living, that this leads to demands for wage-raises, and wage-raises to increases in the prices of manufactured goods—to the public all this gives to Mr. Truman's preachments an atmosphere of inconsistency.

To suppose, as Mr. Truman implies, that the wage-raise in coal may not result in a substantial and more or less immediate increase in prices of all sorts of goods, would be a triumph of hope, not only over economic law, but over plain and recent experience.

AFL Now Admits That Wagner Act Has Not Been Destroyed

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, July 16 — The truth about the new labor law is coming out slowly. The American Federation of Labor, in a bulletin from its own legal department to member unions, frankly admits that the Wagner Act has not been destroyed. It says:

"The five employer unfair labor practices contained in section 8 of the original Wagner Act are repeated in the same language in the new act."

The bulletin then argues that certain "protections" have been whittled down, but these were not in the original Wagner Law at all but were National Labor Relations Board interpretations of certain minor points in the law. Then the AFL's legal counsel says:

"With the foregoing exceptions, the protections against unfair labor activities of employers remain much the same as they were under the original Wagner Act, and the previous board decisions are applicable."

This statement will come as a surprise to that portion of the public which has been led to believe the Wagner Act had been destroyed. The "exceptions" noted by the AFL are matters still within the judgment of the Labor Relations Board and they constitute interpretations, such as statements made by employers against unions which are really protected under the free-speech clause of the constitution.

Employe Is Protected

The AFL has been talking a great deal about its rights to spend what it pleases in campaigns as being a constitutional right, but it still argues that to muzzle an employer is not a violation of the free-speech clause of the constitution.

None of the labor organizations, moreover, is telling the employes that the workers now have been protected by the law to say what they please about unions without being punished by the union. Senator Taft, in a formal statement, has explained the new rights of the employes thus:

"Question. Does the new act give an employe any additional rights?

"Answer. Yes. He is protected from coercion by labor unions and their agents. He is protected from losing his job even if there is a union-shop contract if he is willing to pay union dues. He is given a definite right to insist on non-discriminatory treatment from any welfare fund established. He is protected from personal legal liability for the illegal acts of labor organizations. Other protection is given against both employers and union leaders.

"Question. Against what kind of coercive conduct by unions is an employe protected?

"Answer. He is protected both against physical and economic coercion. For example, in the absence of a valid compulsory union-membership contract if a union compelled a man to join it or to sign an application card by threatening him with loss of his job, this would be economic coercion. Both threats of violence and threats of this kind are prohibited.

"Question. Does this cover mass picketing?

"Answer. Yes. It will cover intimidating conduct or physical force used by union agents on a picketing line to prevent a man from going to work.

Remedy Is Outlined

"Question. What is an employe's remedy under those circumstances?

"Answer. The employee could file an unfair-labor-practice charge and obtain a cease-and-desist order from the national labor relations board. This could be made a matter of a court injunction if necessary.

"Question. Suppose a union forces an employee out of a job?

"Answer. Unless the union has obtained a union contract requiring membership in that union as a condition of employment, the union is prohibited from causing or attempting to cause an employer to discharge an employee whom the union does not like.

"Question. But suppose although the employer is reluctant to fire him, the union nevertheless procures his discharge by strikes or threats to strike?

"Answer. Such an employee is still entitled to reinstatement in a complaint case before the labor relations board. Moreover, the board, since the union was the moving force, can order the union to compensate him for the loss of wages.

"Question. Does the new act give individual workers more voice in the running of their unions?

"Answer. The new act does not police the internal affairs of unions, but it does require the union to give full information regarding its methods of election, methods of operation and financial transactions. A knowledge of these facts will give individual workers more opportunity to express their opinion. They are more free to express their opinion and urge policies contrary to the wishes of the union leaders because, although the union may expel them, they would still be entitled to hold their jobs even in case of a union-shop contract."

THESE DAYS By George E. Sokolsky

Poor Czechoslovakia

NONE of the countries that Woodrow Wilson so ardently helped to create meant so much to him as Czechoslovakia. That undoubtedly was because of his great affection for Professor Thomas Masaryk and his associate, Dr. Edward Benes. Out of the old Austro-Hungarian provinces, Bohemia, Moravia, Slovakia and Ruthenia, Czechoslovakia was created, mostly Slavic but with a strong and important German minority. The country was principally Roman Catholic, with large Protestant and Jewish populations.

The new nation prospered. Its great Skoda works, partly financed by France, became one of the principal heavy industries of Europe. Nevertheless, geography served Czechoslovakia badly. Surrounded by Germany, Austria, Poland and Hungary, Czechoslovakia was not only landlocked but always in danger—in danger of absorption by a powerful Germany. After Munich, Hitler actually moved in, annexing the Sudeten region of Bohemia and making a puppet of Slovakia. During the war, of course, the Nazis occupied the entire country until the Russians took over.

At Yalta, Czechoslovakia was tragically included in the Russian sphere of influence which the Russians always interpreted as giving them a right to pass on the personnel of government.

Thus, the prime minister of the country had to be a Communist. But after Potsdam, one of the really great tragedies of Europe occurred in Czechoslovakia, namely, the Sudetan Germans, 3,500,000 of them, the best workers in the country, were expelled from it. These Germans Bohemians had lived in that country from time immemorial and were the backbone of its industrial life. Few displacements have been as outrageous.

During the war, most of the country had been occupied by the Red Army, which meant that its great heavy industries were held by Soviet Russia. The Czechs negotiated. The best they could get was that whereas the Russians were willing to return these industries to Czechoslovakia, they integrated the entire economy of the country into the Soviet system. Of course, this resulted in the nationalization of certain industries and all banks. About 20 percent of the industries remained free, but they are so tightly controlled that it does not matter. No really free economic life exists today in Czechoslovakia any more than in Soviet Russia.

The Czechs then devised a policy of being a bridge between East and West. Frankly, they decided to collobrate closely with the Soviet Union and the various Slavic states. In April, 1946, a treaty of mutual assistance was signed with Yugoslavia, Soviet Russia's westernmost outpost. The world should have had warning then of what was going on, for Czechoslovakia agreed to support Tito over the Trieste question. No free people would voluntarily do that. Actually, Czechoslovakia was already a puppet, no longer able to determine its own foreign policy.

Czechoslavakia's army, headed by the General Svoboda, is part of the Russian Red Army. General Svoboda had during the war been interned in Russia, serving as a trusted liaison officer between Soviet authorities and other interned Czechs. Experience has well established the fact that only a Communist could be trusted to hold such a position. During the war, the Czechs in London attempted to discard Svoboda but unsuccessfully. At that moment, Soviet Russia threatened to appoint him a Major-General in the Soviet Army which would have given him such a rank and authority as would make him more important in Czech affairs. Only Communists rise in his army which makes a democratic civilian government a weak thing.

What has happened in Czechoslocakia was an inevitable aftermath of Hungary. Soviet Russia is consolidating her power in the old Austro-Hungarian Empire, taking all of it, except little Austria in which the United States still has troops. The curious assumption of the Czechs that they could somehow maneuver themselves into a free life, a middleman between East and West, serving Soviet Russia as a peephole into Western Europe and charging the west a price for the privilege, was as ridiculous as it was futile.

It only took a telephone call from the Kremlin to show Jan Masaryk, the son of the great patriot and Woodrow Wilson's good friend, exactly what he and his country amount to. They are a province of the Soviet Union—little different from Poland, Yugoslavia and poor Poland.

A Consuming Purpose

No one with a consuming purpose can say that there is nothing to live for. In all the many confusing and puzzling events of life there are always openings, brightening vistas, and embers of hope, awaiting the one determined to prove himself as worthy of life and all its ever increasing opportunities for service and happiness.

There are always abundant forces at work to aid the inquiring and the courageous. All of us are venturers, but our compass is faith. First, faith in ourselves, and then faith in our fellowmen. And each supported by our faith in an existing God over all, of whom it is written, even the fall of a sparrow is noticed.

By this consuming purpose do we find ourselves, and learn to distribute our interests, making them one with the many, for none of us can live to himself alone. We must embrace life— learn the human touch, and become one with the beauties and forces of Nature—and to Earth, our mother, as Michael Fairless has so beautifully written.

How can anyone aimlessly look at life, or dismiss its splendors? All about us are aids, suggestions and examples, placed for our edification and profit. One of our great inheritances is our power of choice. Each of us can be selective. Upon our decisions rests our degree of success or happiness. We can be as rich as we choose! Not materially, merely, but spiritually.

One of America's great engineers once told me that he owed his remarkable success to the fact that he wanted it so much that "it hurt"— and so he forged ahead, with a consuming purpose that gave him his heart's desire.

All of our great scientists, artists, writers, industrialists, can well say that what has driven them to achievement has been this one consuming purpose that was ever kept alive within them. And one thing that keeps it alive is enthusiasm—enthusiasm afire! Few things are ever achieved without it.

Educational Finance Act Of 1947 Should Be Defeated

Now and then one or more of the various groups within the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce come up with some sound suggestion regarding policies under discussion, or give approval or disapproval of this or that, accompanied by convincing reasons for the action. The recent adoption of a resolution by the Legislative Committee of the C. of C. opposing the Educational Finance Act of 1947, which proposes to give the states annually $300,000,000 for educational purposes is a good example.

Passage of this bill would give the Federal government its first foothold in the primary and secondary educational systems of the forty-eight states. It raises a major question of policy which goes to the very heart of our Federal system of government.

Our local educational systems are the bulwark of our democratic institutions. To keep them so we must keep them free from Federal interference. To give the Federal government any control over our local educational systems is a move which may lead to the destruction of the States as units in our Federal system.

In every country where Fascist, Communist and other dictatorial governments have gained power, they have had control of the educational system and through this control have been able to indoctrinate the minds of the youth with their propaganda and thus perpetuate their power. That must not happen here.

The Bill in Section 2 states that no Federal agency shall exercise any direction, supervision or control over or prescribe any requirements with respect to any school or State educational institution or agency. Yet, on the other hand, the Bill in Section 7 lists certain provisions a State must fulfill "in order to qualify for receiving funds appropriated under this act." This is control.

Every state shall report annually to Congress by November 1 a detailed statement of the amount received from the Federal government and its disbursements. This, too, is control.

An audit by the state is required covering the expenditure of funds received and apportioned to local school jurisdictions, as well as a system of local reports from local school jurisdictions, and other public educational agencies. Again, that is control.

Every state shall make reports to the Commissioner on Education with respect to the progress of education on forms to be provided by the Commissioner. This is control.

Every state shall send to the Commissioner official notice of acceptance and the official regulations that may be issued by the state educational authority in connection with such funds. Control, pure and simple.

Funds will be allotted only to those states that in any given year spend as much as the total amount or the amount per pupil in average daily attendance, actually spent for such purposes in the fiscal year 1947. Further, the states are to make payments only to those local school jurisdictions which pay average monthly salaries to their teachers not less than the average monthly salaries paid as of February 1, 1947. That is control.

It is certainly reasonable to judge from this list of requirements that the primary purpose of the bill is Federal control over education. If the Federal government pays the bills it will sooner or later dictate the program to be followed. This has been the case with other Federal grants-in-aid. There is no reason to believe its participation in the costs of education would fall into a different category. Education is a local function. It must remain a local function. We must not surrender this control to Washington.

This proposal runs counter to our time-honored traditions and the inalienable rights and responsibilities of parents to mold the minds and characters of their children. With education administered by local school boards, parents can, if necessary, exercise a proper control over the education of their children. If the Federal government gains control over education, parental responsibility will be surrendered to a Federal bureau. Parental control, for all practical purposes, will cease.

It is significant that no State legislature has petitioned Congress for assistance. The entire pressure for Federal aid is being pushed by representatives of the teachers and other educational interests. It is true that the teachers are underpaid in some states, but then, too, so are many other white collar workers. The proponents of this bill should, as did the teachers in Maryland, address themselves to their State and local governments—not to the Federal government.

This bill should receive the stubborn opposition of every tax payer in Maryland. Clubs, Service and Civic organizations should follow the policy of the Chamber of Commerce group in opposing passage of this bill by writing their Senators and Congressmen from this state, urging them to vote against its passage.

More About Lincoln

On Saturday, July 26, three safes in the Library of Congress which hold hitherto secret Lincoln papers will be opened—an event for which many persons have waited with mounting interest over a long period of years.

The papers were deposited there by Abraham Lincoln's son, Robert Todd Lincoln, in May, 1919, with the stipulation they were not to be made public until 21 years after his death. He died July 26, 1926.

One of the subjects on which historians seek more information is that of Secretary of War Stanton. Otto Eisenschiml, in his book, "Why Was Lincoln Murdered?" advanced the possibility that Stanton might have been involved in the John Wilkes Booth plot. The papers may contain material on this matter.

Other subjects on which scholars hope more light may be thrown are events in Lincoln's own family, the start of the Civil War and the attack on Ft. Sumter.

The millions who revere the Emancipator, as well as historians, will be eager to learn more about a great national figure.

"MUSCULAR RHEUMATISM"

THE term "muscular rheumatism" is not exactly specific but is used by many laymen to indicate aching in the muscles or joints of the body. Physicians, on the other hand, attempt to discover which particular structure is involved.

As a rule, the site of the trouble is the fibrous tissue which covers not only the muscles but actually courses between the individual cells. In addition, sheaths of this substance surround the bones, ligaments, nerves, and joints. Since it is packed so closely, any swelling—even though of microscopic dimensions—will produce pain.

Such puffiness can follow infection or injury but in most instances more trivial causes are responsible. Acute attacks can be precipitated by over-exercise. Exposure to cold may likewise be to blame and some persons complain of stiffness of the neck or shoulder or arm pain after riding in a car or train with the window open. The chronic type may be traced to trauma but is more likely to be due to infection. Bacteria reach the affected region through the blood stream of lymphatic structures.

The type of discomfort varies and may resemble the dull ache of a bruise or be sharp, severe, and cramplike. Some areas are more predisposed than others to the disorder. Lumbago is often due to fibrositis. It generally comes on suddenly and may be so incapacitating that any movement such as stooping or turning causes excruciating distress. In stiff neck, the structures on one side or the other are attacked. The sufferer characteristically holds the head in a peculiar position and in order to look to the right or left, will rotate the whole trunk rather than the head. When the muscles in the back of the neck are affected, pain is indistinguishable from headache and may resemble migraine especially when it recurs periodically.

The fibrous tissue about the muscles between the ribs may also be deranged. The condition—pleurodynia— is one of the most distressing forms, as the chest cannot be put at rest. Consequently with each deep breath or on coughing, the manifestations are aggravated. Various aches and pains in the extremities may be due to fibrositis and the physician can usually differentiate this malady from disturbances of the joints, nerves, bones, and blood vessels.

Rest promotes healing hence movements should be minimized. When the back or chest are afflicted, strapping with adhesive tape is helpful. In addition, the parts should be protected from cold. Furthermore, heat—in the form of an electric pad, hot towels, or infrared lamp—will be useful.

Painkilling drugs are frequently required. Occasionally an injection of novocaine or a similar preparation directly into the inflamed spot affords relief. In the chronic variety, the physician usually searches for foci of infection and, when the invaders are eliminated, dramatic results are sometimes encountered. Since one bout makes the individual more susceptible to others, he should wear warm clothes and avoid exposure to cold and dampness.

VEIN DISORDER

J. H. writes: Are phlebitis and the stoppage of blood the same thing?

REPLY

Phlebitis is inflammation of a vein, a condition which often leads to clot formation. This in turn may obstruct the involved vessel but will have no effect on the other veins, the arteries, or the capillaries.

HEAT FOR DISCOMFORT

M. O. N. writes: Is it helpful to put a hot water bottle on the stomach when indigestion occurs?

REPLY

Yes, if spasm is responsible for the symptom. On the other hand, if distress persists or recurs, X-rays and other procedures will be necessary to determine the true cause.

UP AND ABOUT

C. W. writes. What is meant by ambulant treatment?

REPLY

Treatment that is given without confining the patient to bed—for example, an office call instead of hospitalization.

No one seemed to notice the difference, though. Another producer had sneaked in and was showing his picture on the balcony ceiling!

I was invited to a sneak preview. I won't say where it was held, but invitation said "Please replace manhole cover after entering."

They used to hand out dishes to promote pictures. Now the only way they can get you to see them in to send you a few reels and home projector.

They're showing pictures in various places according to their classification. Westerns in barns, the sophisticated dramas in New York subways and my pictures . . . Well, I won't say where they're showing them, but you can't leave without tipping are attendant a quarter.

Truman Reminds Marshall That White House Statements Cannot Be Ignored; General, Charged With Drunken Driving, Transferred From Trial

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON.—President Truman and his Secretary of State, Gen. George Marshall, have had their first difference on foreign policy. The issue was Palestine.

A short time ago, the President was informed that State Department officials were ignoring his statements regarding a Jewish homeland, to some extent steering an opposite course from that fixed by the President of the United States.

Members of Congress who conferred with the new Undersecretary of State Robert Lovett and even with Marshall himself reported back to the White House that they were told the United States had no policy on Palestine. The United States, they were informed, would have to wait until the General Assembly of the United Nations meets in September in order to fix policy.

Meanwhile, President Truman had made a strong statement on Palestine stressing American sympathy for the idea of a Jewish homeland. Despite this, a group of Senators calling at the State Department were informed that the United States still had no Palestine policy.

As a result, Truman called in General Marshall, informed him that the U. S. very definitely does have a Palestine policy. Statements made by the President of the United States, he said, constitute American foreign policy and are to be followed by the State Department.

Secretary Marshall agreed and asked if the President would like to have him make a special statement to the press on Palestine. Truman thought it was too late for this and the matter was dropped. There was no personal row and the two men remain as good friends as ever.

General Doesn't Go To Trial

Democratic director Gael Sullivan should take a tip from the Army when it comes to charges of drunken driving. Sullivan, driving from Washington, D. C., to his home in Woonsocket, R. I., went off the road. A teetotaller, Sullivan was charged with drunken driving, claimed he went asleep at the wheel. The court compromised with $100 fine, plus $100,000 worth of bad publicity.

In contrast, Brig. Gen. August W. Kissner was arrested for drunken driving in Washington on April 17, but has not yet been brought to trial.

General Kissner, however, had powerful friends. They included his superior, Maj. Gen. Curtis E. Le May, Capt. Mark H. Raspberry of the National Park Police and Carlton Skinner, public relations counsel of the Interior Department. These friendships partly derived from the fact that General Kissner had been the flying companion of Secretary of the Interior Krug when the latter took his trans-Pacific trip last summer.

Following the General's arrest, Captain Raspberry and Mr. Skinner accompanied him to the D. C. corporation council's office and pled that the charges be dropped. The corporation counsel, however,, refused. Instead, he ordered a jury trial for April 18.

That jury trial has never been held. It was first postponed to April 28, then to May 19. Meanwhile, the Army very conveniently transferred General Kissner to Germany.

If the General had been an enlisted man, the story might have been different.

NOTE—The District of Columbia is still awaiting the return of General Kissner to bring him to trial. However, it may have a long time to wait. When the Justice Department tried to get Secretary of War Patterson to surrender Col. Freeman Burford of Texas to face trial, Patterson refused. Burford was under criminal indictment in connection with the Louisiana oil scandals in which ex-Gov. Richard Leche was jailed. Colonel Burford still under indictment, has never yet been tried.

Death of an Ambassador

Final chapter in a paradoxical tragedy took place this week when the body of the late Greek Ambassador, Cimon Diamontopoulos, was flown on President Truman's new plane back to Greece.

Ambassador Diamontopoulos died a few hours after a conference with Secretary of State Byrnes at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York last December. Reports have since circulated that the Ambassador was shocked over some of the things his Prime Minister, Constantin Tsaldaris, who participated in the conference, said to Byrnes. However, here is the actual story of what happened.

Premier Tsaldaris had been begging Byrnes to give Greece more teritory at the expense of Bulgaria. This Byrnes refused to do, pointing to the territorial mistakes made in the peace treaties of the last war.

Finaly, during the last Tsaldaris-Byrnes conference, the Greek Premier looked tired, worn, and so nervous that at one point he broke into tears. Feeling sorry for him, Byrnes gave some practical suggestions on how to present a petition to the Big Four foreign ministers, and then turning to the much healthier looking Ambassador Diamontopoulos, he said:

"Get the Ambassador here to prepare the papers for you. He is familiar with the situation and can save you a lot of time and work."

The two Greek diplomats left. A few hours later, Ambassador Diamontopoulos, who had appeared to be in the best of health, was dead of heart failure. Premier Tsaldaris, who had then seemed on the verge of a breakdown, is still carrying on as Foreign Minister of Greece.

Truman's Comments On High Prices Called Inconsistent

By MARK SULLIVAN

Immediately after a wage-raise was granted to coal miners, there arose penciling and calculating about the effect on prices, not merely of coal but all sorts of goods into the making of which coal enters directly or indirectly, especially steel.

To this, President Truman chipped in. His contribution took a double form, assurance to the public and admonition to heads of industry. He spoke of "deep concern being expressed in many quarters" over what he softly phrased as "possible results" of the wage-increase. He said it is "widely feared" that the wage-increase might "renew the inflationary spiral." But, Mr. Truman assured, "such a blow need not fall upon us." For presenting the blow, Mr. Truman admonished heads of industry to wait to see what the actual cost of the wage-raise will be, strongly implying that it need not be great. In general, Mr. Truman admonished industry head to refrain from or minimize increases in prices.

Public Confidence Needed

Presidential admonition is a useful lever in the mechanism of democracy. Its serviceableness is dependent however upon public confidence in presidential utterances, and upon consistency of actions of the Administration which the President heads. In this regard Mr. Truman, as respects preachments against inflation, is in some risk of overdrawing his account.

Technically and word by word, Mr. Truman's present admonition is sound enough. But any utterance is read by the public in the light of contexts and background, both of the utterance and the utterer.

Mr. Truman makes his admonition "in view of the uncertainty as to whether, or how much, costs of coal may be increased" by the wage-raise. Until this is known, he says, "the people of the country have the right to demand that their prosperity shall not be imperiled by immediate increases in the price of coal and in the price of steel"

Of all persons who might use the word "uncertainty" in this connection, Mr. Truman is about to be last. By personal experience, by actions in which he personally took part and which he initiated, he should have no doubt about either the certainty of increased costs and prices, or the immediacy of them.

A year and a half ago Mr. Truman personally intervened in a wage controversy between the steel industry and the steel workers' unions. Against what was then the position of the steel industry, Mr. Truman brought about a raise of some 18½ cents per hour for steel workers. Immediately and concurrently, in order to pay the cost of the wage-raise, the Truman Administration, which then had official control over prices, decreed an increase of $5 a ton in the price of steel.

A little later occurred another case, which should be almost equally vivid in Mr. Truman's memory, and equally make him immune against any uncertainty. On a single day in June 1945, an Administration agency, the Office of Economic Stabilization handed down two decisions—one an increase of $1.37½ a day in the wages of coal miners, the other an increase of 75 cents a ton in the price of coal. The effect of the wage-raise did not wait, as Mr. Truman in the present case says it should; the wage-raise and price increase were simultaneous, and both were actions of the Administration.

Government Policy Questioned

What most gives an atmosphere of inconsistency to all Mr. Truman's preachments against high prices, frequent and urgent during several months past is the practice and policy of the Government itself about the prices that are highest of all. In our whole economy, the prices that are highest—the "most out of line" is a soft phrase used for it—are those of farm products, food. These prices the government officially and energetically keeps up. In practically every farm product, from wheat and milk to potatoes and peanuts, the government has "price support" mechanisms of several kinds—including, in the case of potatoes, purchased by the government for the specific and avowed purpose of preventing the price from going down, and destruction of some of those purchased. All at a cost of hundreds of millions of dollars out of the federal treasury.

To a public painfully aware of the high prices of food; and aware also that high prices of food make high cost of living, that this leads to demands for wage-raises, and wage-raises to increases in the prices of manufactured goods—to the public all this gives to Mr. Truman's preachments an atmosphere of inconsistency.

To suppose, as Mr. Truman implies, that the wage-raise in coal may not result in a substantial and more or less immediate increase in prices of all sorts of goods, would be a triumph of hope, not only over economic law, but over plain and recent experience.

AFL Now Admits That Wagner Act Has Not Been Destroyed

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, July 16 — The truth about the new labor law is coming out slowly. The American Federation of Labor, in a bulletin from its own legal department to member unions, frankly admits that the Wagner Act has not been destroyed. It says:

"The five employer unfair labor practices contained in section 8 of the original Wagner Act are repeated in the same language in the new act."

The bulletin then argues that certain "protections" have been whittled down, but these were not in the original Wagner Law at all but were National Labor Relations Board interpretations of certain minor points in the law. Then the AFL's legal counsel says:

"With the foregoing exceptions, the protections against unfair labor activities of employers remain much the same as they were under the original Wagner Act, and the previous board decisions are applicable."

This statement will come as a surprise to that portion of the public which has been led to believe the Wagner Act had been destroyed. The "exceptions" noted by the AFL are matters still within the judgment of the Labor Relations Board and they constitute interpretations, such as statements made by employers against unions which are really protected under the free-speech clause of the constitution.

Employe Is Protected

The AFL has been talking a great deal about its rights to spend what it pleases in campaigns as being a constitutional right, but it still argues that to muzzle an employer is not a violation of the free-speech clause of the constitution.

None of the labor organizations, moreover, is telling the employes that the workers now have been protected by the law to say what they please about unions without being punished by the union. Senator Taft, in a formal statement, has explained the new rights of the employes thus:

"Question. Does the new act give an employe any additional rights?

"Answer. Yes. He is protected from coercion by labor unions and their agents. He is protected from losing his job even if there is a union-shop contract if he is willing to pay union dues. He is given a definite right to insist on non-discriminatory treatment from any welfare fund established. He is protected from personal legal liability for the illegal acts of labor organizations. Other protection is given against both employers and union leaders.

"Question. Against what kind of coercive conduct by unions is an employe protected?

"Answer. He is protected both against physical and economic coercion. For example, in the absence of a valid compulsory union-membership contract if a union compelled a man to join it or to sign an application card by threatening him with loss of his job, this would be economic coercion. Both threats of violence and threats of this kind are prohibited.

"Question. Does this cover mass picketing?

"Answer. Yes. It will cover intimidating conduct or physical force used by union agents on a picketing line to prevent a man from going to work.

Remedy Is Outlined

"Question. What is an employe's remedy under those circumstances?

"Answer. The employee could file an unfair-labor-practice charge and obtain a cease-and-desist order from the national labor relations board. This could be made a matter of a court injunction if necessary.

"Question. Suppose a union forces an employee out of a job?

"Answer. Unless the union has obtained a union contract requiring membership in that union as a condition of employment, the union is prohibited from causing or attempting to cause an employer to discharge an employee whom the union does not like.

"Question. But suppose although the employer is reluctant to fire him, the union nevertheless procures his discharge by strikes or threats to strike?

"Answer. Such an employee is still entitled to reinstatement in a complaint case before the labor relations board. Moreover, the board, since the union was the moving force, can order the union to compensate him for the loss of wages.

"Question. Does the new act give individual workers more voice in the running of their unions?

"Answer. The new act does not police the internal affairs of unions, but it does require the union to give full information regarding its methods of election, methods of operation and financial transactions. A knowledge of these facts will give individual workers more opportunity to express their opinion. They are more free to express their opinion and urge policies contrary to the wishes of the union leaders because, although the union may expel them, they would still be entitled to hold their jobs even in case of a union-shop contract."

By George E. Sokolsky

Poor Czechoslovakia

NONE of the countries that Woodrow Wilson so ardently helped to create meant so much to him as Czechoslovakia. That undoubtedly was because of his great affection for Professor Thomas Masaryk and his associate, Dr. Edward Benes. Out of the old Austro-Hungarian provinces, Bohemia, Moravia, Slovakia and Ruthenia, Czechoslovakia was created, mostly Slavic but with a strong and important German minority. The country was principally Roman Catholic, with large Protestant and Jewish populations.

The new nation prospered. Its great Skoda works, partly financed by France, became one of the principal heavy industries of Europe. Nevertheless, geography served Czechoslovakia badly. Surrounded by Germany, Austria, Poland and Hungary, Czechoslovakia was not only landlocked but always in danger—in danger of absorption by a powerful Germany. After Munich, Hitler actually moved in, annexing the Sudeten region of Bohemia and making a puppet of Slovakia. During the war, of course, the Nazis occupied the entire country until the Russians took over.

At Yalta, Czechoslovakia was tragically included in the Russian sphere of influence which the Russians always interpreted as giving them a right to pass on the personnel of government.

Thus, the prime minister of the country had to be a Communist. But after Potsdam, one of the really great tragedies of Europe occurred in Czechoslovakia, namely, the Sudetan Germans, 3,500,000 of them, the best workers in the country, were expelled from it. These Germans Bohemians had lived in that country from time immemorial and were the backbone of its industrial life. Few displacements have been as outrageous.

During the war, most of the country had been occupied by the Red Army, which meant that its great heavy industries were held by Soviet Russia. The Czechs negotiated. The best they could get was that whereas the Russians were willing to return these industries to Czechoslovakia, they integrated the entire economy of the country into the Soviet system. Of course, this resulted in the nationalization of certain industries and all banks. About 20 percent of the industries remained free, but they are so tightly controlled that it does not matter. No really free economic life exists today in Czechoslovakia any more than in Soviet Russia.

The Czechs then devised a policy of being a bridge between East and West. Frankly, they decided to collobrate closely with the Soviet Union and the various Slavic states. In April, 1946, a treaty of mutual assistance was signed with Yugoslavia, Soviet Russia's westernmost outpost. The world should have had warning then of what was going on, for Czechoslovakia agreed to support Tito over the Trieste question. No free people would voluntarily do that. Actually, Czechoslovakia was already a puppet, no longer able to determine its own foreign policy.

Czechoslavakia's army, headed by General Svpboda, is part of the Russian Red Army. General Svoboda had during the war been interned in Russia, serving as a trusted liaison officer between Soviet authorities and other interned Czechs. Experience has well established the fact that only a Communist could be trusted to hold such a position. During the war, the Czechs in London attempted to discard Svoboda but unsuccessfully. At that moment, Soviet Russia threatened to appoint him a Major-General in the Soviet Army which would have given him such a rank and authority as would make him more important in Czech affairs. Only Communists rise in his army which makes a democratic civilian government a weak thing.

What has happened in Czechoslocakia was an inevitable aftermath of Hungary. Soviet Russia is consolidating her power in the old Austro-Hungarian Empire, taking all of it, except little Austria in which the United States still has troops. The curious assumption of the Czechs that they could somehow maneuver themselves into a free life, a middleman between East and West, serving Soviet Russia as a peephole into Western Europe and charging the west a price for the privilege, was as ridiculous as it was futile.

It only took a telephone call from the Kremlin to show Jan Masaryk, the son of the great patriot and Woodrow Wilson's good friend, exactly what he and his country amount to. They are a province of the Soviet Union—little different from Poland, Yugoslavia and poor Poland.

A Consuming Purpose

No one with a consuming purpose can say that there is nothing to live for. In all the many confusing and puzzling events of life there are always openings, brightening vistas, and embers of hope, awaiting the one determined to prove himself as worthy of life and all its ever increasing opportunities for service and happiness.

There are always abundant forces at work to aid the inquiring and the courageous. All of us are venturers, but our compass is faith. First, faith in ourselves, and then faith in our fellowmen. And each supported by our faith in an existing God over all, of whom it is written, even the fall of a sparrow is noticed.

By this consuming purpose do we find ourselves, and learn to distribute our interests, making them one with the many, for none of us can live to himself alone. We must embrace life— learn the human touch, and become one with the beauties and forces of Nature—and to Earth, our mother, as Michael Fairless has so beautifully written.

How can anyone aimlessly look at life, or dismiss its splendors? All about us are aids, suggestions and examples, placed for our edification and profit. One of our great inheritances is our power of choice. Each of us can be selective. Upon our decisions rests our degree of success or happiness. We can be as rich as we choose! Not materially, merely, but spiritually.

One of America's great engineers once told me that he owed his remarkable success to the fact that he wanted it so much that "it hurt"— and so he forged ahead, with a consuming purpose that gave him his heart's desire.

All of our great scientists, artists, writers, industrialists, can well say that what has driven them to achievement has been this one consuming purpose that was ever kept alive within them. And one thing that keeps it alive is enthusiasm—enthusiasm afire! Few things are ever achieved without it.

Turkey Will Get 10 U. S. Vessels For Armed Force

Greece Receiving Military Advice

WASHINGTON, July 16 (AP) — A prospective sale of 10 passenger-cargo ships to Turkey was disclosed today by Secretary of State Marshall as part of the government's program to strengthen the Turkish armed forces against Communist pressure.

Announcing the deal Marshall said also he assumed that the American military mission in Greece was advising the Greek Army on an instructional basis. The Greek army is now in combat with guerrillas.

Marshall at a news conference did not go into detail on this point but other officials noted that the recently enacted legislation authorizing $300,000,000 for bolstering Greece provided the mission could act in an "advisory capacity."

The ships to be sold Turkey include two oil tankers, two victory ships and six passenger-cargo carriers not yet finally selected by a Turkish Purchasing Commission. Two under consideration were Naval transports during the war and are deemed suitable for troop carriers.

Marshall in his announcement said he had asked the Maritime Commission to approve the sale of all the vessels. They are in two lots. The Navy, Marshall said, has concurred in the sale of six-government-owned passenger-cargo carriers.

He said the sale was "for the purpose of assisting in the strengthening of the Turkish Transport System through replacement of some of the very old vessels now in use."

The remaining four vessels are the two victory ships and the two tankers, to be disposed of as surplus under the 1946 Merchant Ship sales act.

BODY IS FOUND—Detective Vincent Murphy stands over sheet-covered body of Harold C. Keppler, 34, of Paterson, N. J., found stuffed partly into furnace in Harlem tenement building yesterday morning. Medical examiners said Keppler was slashed about the throat and face. Three hours after the discovery of the body, New Brunswick, N. J., police reported the arrest of a negro in Keppler's blood-stained automobile.

Senate Approves Pollution Measure

WASHINGTON, July 16 (AP) — A bill aimed at cleaning up polluted streams was approved unanimously by the Senate and sent to the House today.

The measure would empower the surgeon general of the Public Health Service to co-operate with other federal agencies and with states and local governments in setting up a comprehensive anti-pollution program.

It authorizes but does not appropriate $100,000,000 to be provided in any fiscal year for technical services and loans to states, interstate agencies and industries for pollution abatement. Loans would be repayable at two per cent interest.

Battle Declares Coal Owners Can't Absorb New Hikes

NCA Gives Truman Facts On Costs

WASHINGTON, July 16 (AP) — The National Coal Association today told President Truman that commercial soft coal operators "are in no position to absorb the costs" of the new contract with John L. Lewis' miners.

Mr. Truman on Monday appealed to coal and steel interests to keep prices down, at least until exact costs could be determined, in the wake of the new Lewis contract. The agreement increased the miner's average pay to $13.05 for an-eight hour pay. It had been $11.85 for nine hours.

John D. Battle, executive secretary of the National Coal Association, reminded Mr. Truman that he had advised him April 23 that the industry "realized only about forty million dollars in 1946."

"Had your research department looked at government figures it would have discovered that in 1946 the average net operating margin for the commercial bituminous coal mines in the United States was 13 cents per ton," Battle wrote the president.

"As a matter of fact, there are a number of items of cost not included in the figures from which the 13-cent margin is derived; among the costs not covered are interest, bad debts, demurrage charges, idle mines, and mines under development.

Taft Disagrees

Henderson appeared before the committee representing the Americans for Democratic Action (ADA).

He said prices have run far ahead of wages and the "imbalance" has cut buying power to the danger point.

Taft, continuing his long-standing dispute with Henderson over economic principles, questioned whether there has been any "real reduction" of purchasing power.

"I suggest there is no imbalance between prices and wages. x x x I suggest that on the whole wages have gone up more than prices," Taft said.

The ADA program outlined by Henderson calls, among other things, for an "orderly scaling down" of prices by about 50 per cent of the increases since June, 1946. It also recommends wage increases wherever the 15-cent-an-hour increase pattern of this year has not been put in effect.

Taft commented that Henderson, when he headed OPA in 1942, said wage increases threatened the nation's economic stability.

Charges Change of Mind

"Now you recommend that we cure the present situation by raising wages in order to make up purchasing power," Taft said.

Henderson argued that prices were controlled then, and this required wage ceilings as well.

Taft and Henderson agreed that:

1. High prices for homes and the housing shortage should be investigated by Congress. Henderson called the housing situation "one of our stinking shames."

2. Federal excise taxes—levies on such items as liquor, jewelry and luggage—should be eliminated. Taft said this can be done after income taxes have been reduced.

Henderson appeared with three other ADA members who played a part in the government's wartime stabilization program: Paul Porter, also a former price administrator; Robert M. Nathan, former deputy director of War Mobilization and Reconversion; and Richard V. Gilbert, one-time OPA chief economist.

Meet the greatest career woman of all! She doesn't manage a business, write novels, paint portraits, or sing over the radio. But her job's big and it's important—she runs a home!

What a job that is! In a year she washes more than 6 tons of dishes, cooks more than 1000 meals, wades through mountains of laundry, trundles her vacuum cleaner across acres and acres of rugs!

The more Mom depends on electric service, the less work is in her housework. And how little electricity costs! A penny's worth a day will rescue Mom from the drudgery of dishwashing. A few more pennies daily will cook her meals. Electricity will help her wash and iron for less weekly than the cost of a bar of soap.

And when Mom balances her budget, she's bound to note that electricity is one of its smallest items. Actually, the average family now gets twice as much electricity for its money as it did about 20 years ago. This bargain comes to Mom—and to you, too—through the practical experience of your friends and neighbors in this company, under sound business management.

The Gallup Poll

POLITICAL SCOREBOARD

Following is a summary of recent Gallup Poll findings on the political situation.

1. TRUMAN'S POPULARITY—Sloughed off somewhat after President's set-to with Congress over tax and labor bills. Favorable reaction of voters to nation's developing foreign policy might be reflected in smallness of dip in his popularity chart. More than half of voters like the way Truman is handling his job, while only one of out three disapprove, the rest having no opinion. President's course still finds strong support among union members and farmers.

2. DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATES—On this score the President runs far out in front of other possibilities mentioned by Democratic voters He lost a few points following the veto spree late in June, but has such a comfortable margin that his managers won't lose much sleep over the drop. With one in ten voters, however, expressing a preference for a third party headed by Wallace, a definite threat to Democratic hopes next year comes on the horizon. Seventy-one per cent of Democratic voters want Truman to run again; Wallace is runner up with only 12 per cent.

3. DEMOCRATIC STRENGTH—Maintains even pace following the strong comeback after 1946 elections, with 55 per cent of voters declaring they would cast ballots for Democratic party if election were held today; 45 per cent would vote Republican, no matter who the candidate was.

4. DEWEY'S LEAD—Despite the New York governor's silence on major issues, Republican voters interviewed continue to give Dewey a heavy preference. His popularity with GOP rank and file maintains a steady pace. Former Governor Stassen, the only Republican to admit his hat is in the ring, trails behind Dewey with 15 per cent of the party naming him as their choice. Comparisons of support given each of these contenders indicate possibility of strong race between now and June conventions.

"Boys' Week" Will Be Held In City

Final plans will be made at a meeting tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in City Hall to hold "Boys' Week" in Cumberland, starting August 4 with a series of events to be held in Constitution Park.

Civic, fraternal and veterans' organizations, as well as any interested individuals, are invited to attend the meeting, according to Nestor J. Licot, recreation director at the park.

The program, designed to provide planned recreation and entertainment for the youth of Cumberland, will start with a bicycle parade, with local bands and clubs also asked to take part.

Other events during the week will include a softball tournament, exhibition boxing, bicycle races, swimming and diving contests, talent night, pet show, model airplane meet, and an archery contest. Prizes will be awarded for the events, all of which will be held in the park. The program will start at 6 p. m. each day. A picnic will climax the week's events.

Preliminary plans were made at a recent meeting. Besides Licot, those present were Officer J. Henry Stitcher, director of the Police Boys Club; John J. Long, representing the Catholic Youth Organization, and Hugh Funkhouser of the Optimist Club.

Court's Opinion Construes Will Of Elizabeth Roberts

An opinion construing the will of Elizabeth H. Roberts, who died in 1929, was handed down by Associate Judge George Henderson in Circuit Court yesterday, after action was brought by the co-executors under her will against the executors and children of W. Milnor Roberts, Jr.

Purpose of the suit was to determine whether a one-seventh of that part of the estate of Elizabeth Roberts which is still undistributed is now vested in the executors or the children of W. Milnor Roberts, Jr.

Judge Henderson in his opinion declared that "So far as the real estate owned by Elizabeth H. Roberts at the time of her death (and we are concerned here only with her real estate and the proceeds of sale of her real estate, since her personal property was all disposed of in the so-called first and final accounting) her named children took under her will a clear right to receive during their respective lives a one-seventh of the net proceeds, if it were sold and the proceeds distributed during their lives, or if any real estate were distributed in kind.

"But there was no duty imposed by the will on the executor to do either within a specified time. And he could decide whether it were better for those entitled to share in the proceeds for him to distribute in kind or to sell, and, if the latter, when the proper time to sell. Of course, those entitled could take legal proceedings if they felt there was unreasonable delay. Evidently there was no such belief, probably due to their knowledge that since 1930 until fairly recently it has been rather difficult to sell real estate.

"What has been said above with reference to the real estate applie to the proceeds of the sale of rea estate. The children of Elizabeth H. Roberts are given a right to a definite share of such proceeds when and as there is a distribution. But in case of the death of any of her children, then the grandchildren took such undistributed proceeds of sale."

ubber Workers Will spurn New Labor Board

Kelly Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America, CIO, yesterday announced that it will not use the facilities of the new National Labor Relations Board as set up under the new Hartley-Taft Labor law.

The action follows the policy set by the union's executive board which met in Chicago. L. S. Buckmaster, president, in a resolution adopted by Local 26, said:

"The union would be deceiving its members if it advised them there is hope that the facilities of the new Labor Board would provide protection of workers seeking to organize and to exercise their rights to engage in collective bargaining."

Buckmaster emphasized that the union will exercise good will and continue lasting friendships and bargain in good faith with those employers who deal with the union in a spirit of friendship and responsibility.

Frostburg Man Held On Morals Charge

Irvin Louis Walters, 39, Water Street, Frostburg, was released under $500 bond yesterday by Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce for action of the October grand jury on a charge of having carnal knowledge of a 15-year-old girl.

Bond was posted in trial magistrates court yesterday by his sister, Mrs. Minnie Miller, Route 1, Frostburg.

Authorities said the girl's mother, Mrs. Evelyn Gertrude Dennison Stewart Whitefield, 37, Frostburg, drew a six month jail term as the result of a hearing in Juvenile Court. She was charged with contributing to the delinquency of her daughter, Betty Jane Stewart.

The woman, authorities added, has been tried in Juvenile Court before on similar charges. She will be committed to the Maryland Reformatory for Females.

Walters, the State's Attorney's office reported, signed a statement admitting that he had sexual relations with the girl on Sunday. The girl will be 16 in September.

Louis Donius, this city, received a 30-day jail sentence this morning after Magistrate Frank A. Perdew found him guilty of stealing vegetables from the South Cumberland garden of Stanley E. Neat.

Police said they found Donius, who is already scheduled to face the October grand jury on two charges, coming out of the garden with a handful of radishes Tuesday morning. His shoes were muddy and the garden was badly trampled, officers remarked. Two piles of lettuce and onions, which had been pulled, were stacked on the ground.

Clytie, in classic myth, was a sea nymph, daughter of Oceanus, who fell in love with Apollo, the sun god. Meeting with no return of her affections, she was mercifully changed into a sun flower, which constantly faces the sun throughout his daily course.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Wants The "Lonesome Widower's" Address

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I read in your column a letter written by a lonesome widower, and I can realize his position because I am the same age and alone, too. You advise him to join clubs, but I have tried that, and most all of those who attend are in couples, and it's embarrassing to come alone, so I just quit going.

If this man would like me to write him, I think it's fun to find new friends through the mail. Is there any way I can get his address?

"Lonesome Widow"

Dear "Lonesome Widow:"

I wonder if you'd be surprised to know that you are only one of a large number of women who have asked me to put them in touch with the man in question? Some of these women sent their names and addresses so that I was able to write them personally and explain what I have also explained a number of times in print—that I do not believe in "picking up" acquaintances by mail any more than I do on street corners.

I often wonder why middle-aged people who are lonely don't start a club of their own, right in their town, and develop their own social circle. They wouldn't be lonely long. I've already heard of one such—"The 45-Over Club"—being organized in a town in New York State, and as soon as I get some more information about it, I'll let you know. If others can do it, why not you? All it would seem to take is a little initiative.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a girl of 16 and have been going with a fellow, 20, for about three months. His parents are foreign and my mother and father refuse to let me go out with such fellows. His parents don't seem to mind that I am not of their race.

I have been going out with him secretly, and I would like to bring him home to meet my parents, because we are very much in love with each other, but I am scared there would be trouble. Please try to help me out.

"Mickey"

Dear "Mickey:"

It is certainly too bad that your parents do not realize what a fine thing it is for girls and boys of different background to become friends. There is no better way for young people to prepare themselves for helping to make this world a better place to live in than to take advantage of every opportunity that comes along to learn to know and understand those of other nationalities with other customs and other ideas.

It might possibly be, however, that your parents are just afraid of your rushing into a romance too early, and so use any excuse they can think of to try to keep you from becoming too much interested in any young man. I feel myself that you are still much too young to decide that you are "in love," and am sure you'd be wiser just to think of all boys as friends for a while yet, instead of getting too serious about any one of them. If your parents realize you are sensible enough to do this, you might find them more ready to let you go about more freely. Why not try this plan, and see if it doesn't make things go more smoothly?

ILWU Calls Off Hawaiian Strike; Truce Is Reached

Bridges Orders 12,000 Workers Back To Jobs

HONOLULU, July 16 (AP) — Labor peace returned to the fruit-heavy pineapple plantations and empty canneries of Hawaii today under a contract negotiations truce.

The International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union (CIO)) last night abruptly called off its five day strike — marked by some violence and involved legal action—and President Harry Bridges ordered an estimated 12,000 workers to return to their jobs at noon.

The ILWU agreed to send its members back to work pending new sessions around the conference table with representatives of the $65,000,000 annual pineapple industry on a wage dispute which flared suddenly into a harvest-time walkout with settlement almost in sight.

"This is the toughest case I ever worked on," said Federal Conciliator Nathan P. Feinsinger, who brought the two parties together again.

"There was danger that if the strike was not settled this week it would have gone on for months and dragged sugar and the waterfront down with it."

Both sides accepted Feinsinger's proposals to allow all employes to return to work "without discrimination," to resume negotiations promptly and to continue terms of the old agreement pending final agreement on a new pact.

The ILWU originally demanded 23½ cent hourly increase in the 80-cents an hour base pay for men and 70 cents for women. It came down to a 15-cent increase, however. The industry offered 10 cents.

Disagreement last week had narrowed to the retroactive date of the pay adjustments. The union said February 1; the pineapple companies said June 1. Under the truce agreement, Feinsinger said all money items in the new contract will be effective on the work-resumption date.

Appeal For "The Outlaw"

BALTIMORE, July 16 (AP) — United Artists cooperation filed an appeal against a State Board of Censors ban on the showing of the motion picture "The Outlaw" in Baltimore City court today.

The film was rejected by the board June 25 with a ruling it was "obscene, indecent, inhuman and immoral and tending in the judgment of the board to debase morals and incite to crime."

Honest Women Pay State Sales Tax

BALTIMORE, July 16 (AP)—State sales tax officials have been talking lately about Maryland's "most honest man,"—the fellow who would be first to step forward and pay a "use tax" on purchases made outside the state.

They awarded the title today to two Elkton women.

In today's mail, the sales tax office received a check for 32 cents from Miss Bratton and one for 37 cents from her friend. The checks represented the use tax on their purchases.

They were the first such payments received since the sales and use taxes became effective July 1.

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., July 16 —(AP)—L. E. Barkhouser of Martinsburg was named president of the Automobile Dealers Association of the Eastern Panhandle at an organization and dinner meeting here.

Declaring that the question of quotas is of the "utmost importance," Gromyko said he would like for the delegates to discuss it thoroughly. Frederick H. Osborn, United States, said however he would not discuss quotas at this time.

Dr. Byrd Offers 6-Point Plan For Negro Education

University Head Attacks Critics

BALTIMORE, July 16 (AP)—Dr. H. C. Byrd, University of Maryland president, lashed back at critics of the University's administration of Princess Anne College and offered the Legislative Council his own six-point program for higher education for negroes today.

The last spokesman for Maryland colleges and universities to discuss the Marbury Commission on Higher Education proposals, Dr. Byrd made these recommendations "if the state wishes to continue its bi-racial system":

1. Operate the University of Maryland as now organized.

2. Turn over Morgan College to the University Board of Regents; continue to develop Princess Anne College and provide funds for both so that neither would duplicate the work of the other, except as necessary in arts and sciences.

3. Provide an adequate number of scholarships to be used under direction of the University Board of Regents for qualified negro students to study dentistry, engineering and pharmacy outside the state, especially at Howard University. For this he advocated reciprocal land grant authority with the District of Columbia.

Suggests Co-operative Work

4. Arrange for co-operative graduate work between College Park, Morgan and Princess Anne, with College Park department heads as supervisors.

5. Establish from time to time, new departments at Morgan and Princess Anne.

6. Create advisory boards, entirely of negroes, for Morgan and Princess Anne.

Before setting forth his program, which he said was substantially the same as one he proposed in 1939, Dr. Byrd attacked statements made by Judge Morris A. Soper, chairman of the Morgan College Board of Trustees, before the Council July 2.

He particularly protested an opinion of the higher education commission, supported by Judge Soper, that Princess Anne be abandoned and its functions transferred to Morgan College. Declaring he opposed the original purchase of Princess Anne, now operated by the University as a land grant college for negroes, Dr. Byrd said Judge Soper had:

"Participated in an aggressively successful effort to sell to the state for $100,000 property of which he said two years later, 'little property value would be lost to the state if it were closed'".

He termed impractical a proposal that separate schools be maintained in the state for undergraduate work, but that negroes be admitted to professional and graduate schools.

Destroys Segregation Idea

"Admission to the graduate school would mean admission to College Park," Dr. Byrd said, "and would destroy the very segregation idea for the undergraduate school that is proposed."

He insisted his recommendations would not be "unduly expensive," adding "it is an accepted fact that a bi-racial system of education is more expensive than a single system, and if the people of the state wish to continue the bi-racial system, it will be necessary to pay the additional cost or go out of the business of state-controlled education."

He noted that the problem of "discrimination" could extend conversely to a white student using the state for education "at just as low a cost as it is providing such opportunities for negro students."

ILWU Calls Off Hawaiian Strike; Truce Is Reached

Bridges Orders 12,000 Workers Back To Jobs

HONOLULU, July 16 (AP) — Labor peace returned to the fruit-heavy pineapple plantations and empty canneries of Hawaii today under a contract negotiations truce.

The International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union (CIO)) last night abruptly called off its five day strike — marked by some violence and involved legal action—and President Harry Bridges ordered an estimated 12,000 workers to return to their jobs at noon.

The ILWU agreed to send its members back to work pending new sessions around the conference table with representatives of the $65,000,000 annual pineapple industry on a wage dispute which flared suddenly into a harvest-time walkout with settlement almost in sight.

"This is the toughest case I ever worked on," said Federal Conciliator Nathan P. Feinsinger, who brought the two parties together again.

"There was danger that if the strike was not settled this week it would have gone on for months and dragged sugar and the waterfront down with it."

Both sides accepted Feinsinger's proposals to allow all employes to return to work "without discrimination," to resume negotiations promptly and to continue terms of the old agreement pending final agreement on a new pact.

The ILWU originally demanded 23½ cent hourly increase in the 80-cents an hour base pay for men and 70 cents for women. It came down to a 15-cent increase, however. The industry offered 10 cents.

Disagreement last week had narrowed to the retroactive date of the pay adjustments. The union said February 1; the pineapple companies said June 1. Under the truce agreement, Feinsinger said all money items in the new contract will be effective on the work-resumption date.

Loans On Grain Crops Are Processed

COLLEGE PARK, Md., July 16 (AP)—Loans on this year's wheat and barley crops are now being processed in County Triple-A offices, the State Production and Marketing Administration of the Department of Agriculture announced today.

Appeal For "The Outlaw"

BALTIMORE, July 16 (AP) — United Artists cooperation filed an appeal against a State Board of Censors ban on the showing of the motion picture "The Outlaw" in Baltimore City court today.

The film was rejected by the board June 25 with a ruling it was "obscene, indecent, inhuman and immoral and tending in the judgment of the board to debase morals and incite to crime."

Honest Women Pay State Sales Tax

BALTIMORE, July 16 (AP)—State sales tax officials have been talking lately about Maryland's "most honest man,"—the fellow who would be first to step forward and pay a "use tax" on purchases made outside the state.

They awarded the title today to two Elkton women.

In today's mail, the sales tax office received a check for 32 cents from Miss Bratton and one for 37 cents from her friend. The checks represented the use tax on their purchases.

They were the first such payments received since the sales and use taxes became effective July 1.

A Weak, Run-Down Feeling Is Often A Warning

That The Red-Blood Is Getting Low

If you do not feel like your real self, do not have the urge to be up and doing, why not check-up on your blood strength? Look at the palms of your hands, your fingernails, your lips, the lobes of your ears—are they pale and off color?

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloat and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

A Weak, Run-Down Feeling Is Often A Warning

That The Red-Blood Is Getting Low

If you do not feel like your real self, do not have the urge to be up and doing, why not check-up on your blood strength? Look at the palms of your hands, your fingernails, your lips, the lobes of your ears—are they pale and off color?

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloat and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

By C. V. BURNS

Speaking at a luncheon in Richmond, Va., on Tuesday, Jim Tatum, the University of Maryland's new football coach, said:

"Clark Shaughnessy had a lot of big men at College Park last fall, but very few of them were the kind of football players who can help us. Aside from our first two backfields, most of the men I'm planning to use as regulars will be freshmen. In fact, of the 60 men I'm planning to invite in September 1 for early

Jim related that the job he has at College Park is much different than the one he had last year at the University of Oklahoma.

"Down there, the Oklahoma people wanted to beat Oklahoma A. & M., like nothing else in the world," Tatum declared.

"At Maryland, there just isn't a natural rival the Alumni want their team to beat. If you have a moderately successful season, the Maryland Alumni are satisfied. We haven't had a really hated rival since Johns Hopkins de-emphasized football.

"Another disadvantage is that only nine high schools in Maryland play football. The nine produced five players this spring who might help us. One of them is going to Wake Forest, another to VPI. "We're getting three. I hope we can encourage other high schools in the state to introduce football programs."

"In turning back Fort Cumberland Post No. 13 junior league team at the stadium on Sunday, the Morris Frock Post No. 42 team stamped themselves as a favorite to go ahead and take the regional tourney game which will be played at the stadium as Cumberland will be their opponents in that contest, unless something unforeseen pops up and we understand there is some trouble brewing and it doesn't smell any too good.

"Let's hope that officials in charge of the state tourney will see eye to eye and send the best team that the state can produce to compete for national honors. At least keep the stink out of junior Legion games."

This was written Sunday night before Hagerstown was reported to have been declared ineligible.

"We'll let you in on a little secret. Our neighboring counties to the west are doing everything possible to keep the local American Legion junior team from competing in the state championship games.

"A meeting was held in Baltimore yesterday, at which Hagerstown was voted out of state competition because a representative from Cumberland thought we shouldn't be eligible. But the Morris Frock Post doesn't like it a bit and, if need be, they plan to go over the state body to gain their rights.

Gordon Morrow is the new racing secretary at Wheeling for the 52-day meeting which opens there August 20. Morrow handles the same job at the Pascoag track in Rhode Island.

In the days when Eddie Dyer, present manager of the St. Louis Cards, handled the reins of the Scottdale (Pa.) Mid-Atlantic entry, he took his entire team off the field when Umpire Hughie McCloskey ejected two players for strenuously protesting a close decision at Johnstown. Eddie was fined $300 but he escaped a suspension. Cumberland was in the league at that time.

According to Jaeger, a 5-year-old named Gene Chance won the final race on a program there. The next morning the horse was brought out early for his morning walk. All of a sudden the gelding began to shiver and shake and attempted to

GAME TODAY
Mt. Savage at Barton (5:30)

Manager Norman Gerdeman's Cumberland Amvets packed their scoring punch into the late innings, chased ten runs over the platter in the sixth, seventh and eighth frames and racked up their 18th victory in 23 starts in the Bi-State Baseball League by downing the Frostburg Veterans of Foreign Wars at Taylor Field by the score of 14-11.

Frostburg held a 9-4 lead at the end of the fifth inning but was unable to hold it when the locals donned their batting togs in the last three stanzas.

Four of Frostburg's hits went for extra bases while the home team got 12 of their 13 from the offerings of Hoffman, including a double by Edgar "Ike" Cessna and a triple by Kenneth "Shake" Clark. Norris hammered a triple, double and single and Joe Langan and Harold Scott each had perfect days by getting four for four. Charley Strauss paced the Amvets with a two-bagger and two singles.

Art Donato, former West Virginia University southpaw, went the route for the Amvets and although nicked for 16 hits he forced 15 Frostburg runners to perish on the paths. He threw the third strike past eight batsmen and issued seven bases on balls. Hoffman walked four and hit two batsmen.

Winfield and Urbas of Frostburg and Strauss of the Amvets were the fielding stars.

Tandberg Is Offered Bout With Natie Mann

NEW HAVEN, July 16 (AP) — Matchmaker George Sheppard of the New Haven Arena said today that he had cabled an offer of $15,000 to Olle Tandberg, Swedish heavyweight, to meet Nathan Mann of New Haven in an open air match here this summer.

Sheppard said that Mann who emerged from retirement two years ago to compile a fairly impressive string of victories has already agreed to terms. Mann, knocked out by Champion Joe Louis in three rounds several years ago, recently defeated Charley Weinberg, conqueror of Tami Mauriello. Jim Tatum Talks Football

Hagerstown's Ineligible

Colley Says Odor Is Bad

A Veterinarian Blunders

By C. V. BURNS

Speaking at a luncheon in Richmond, Va., on Tuesday, Jim Tatum, the University of Maryland's new football coach, said:

"Clark Shaughnessy had a lot of big men at College Park last fall, but very few of them were the kind of football players who can help us. Aside from our first two backfields, most of the men I'm planning to use as regulars will be freshmen. In fact, of the 60 men I'm planning to invite in September 1 for early

Jim related that the job he has at College Park is much different than the one he had last year at the University of Oklahoma.

"Down there, the Oklahoma people wanted to beat Oklahoma A. & M., like nothing else in the world," Tatum declared.

"At Maryland, there just isn't a natural rival the Alumni want their team to beat. If you have a moderately successful season, the Maryland Alumni are satisfied. We haven't had a really hated rival since Johns Hopkins de-emphasized football.

"Another disadvantage is that only nine high schools in Maryland play football. The nine produced five players this spring who might help us. One of them is going to Wake Forest, another to VPI. "We're getting three. I hope we can encourage other high schools in the state to introduce football programs."

"In turning back Fort Cumberland Post No. 13 junior league team at the stadium on Sunday, the Morris Frock Post No. 42 team stamped themselves as a favorite to go ahead and take the regional tourney game which will be played at the stadium as Cumberland will be their opponents in that contest, unless something unforeseen pops up and we understand there is some trouble brewing and it doesn't smell any too good.

"Let's hope that officials in charge of the state tourney will see eye to eye and send the best team that the state can produce to compete for national honors. At least keep the stink out of junior Legion games."

This was written Sunday night before Hagerstown was reported to have been declared ineligible.

"We'll let you in on a little secret. Our neighboring counties to the west are doing everything possible to keep the local American Legion junior team from competing in the state championship games.

"A meeting was held in Baltimore yesterday, at which Hagerstown was voted out of state competition because a representative from Cumberland thought we shouldn't be eligible. But the Morris Frock Post doesn't like it a bit and, if need be, they plan to go over the state body to gain their rights.

Gordon Morrow is the new racing secretary at Wheeling for the 52-day meeting which opens there August 20. Morrow handles the same job at the Pascoag track in Rhode Island.

In the days when Eddie Dyer, present manager of the St. Louis Cards, handled the reins of the Scottdale (Pa.) Mid-Atlantic entry, he took his entire team off the field when Umpire Hughie McCloskey ejected two players for strenuously protesting a close decision at Johnstown. Eddie was fined $300 but he escaped a suspension. Cumberland was in the league at that time.

According to Jaeger, a 5-year-old named Gene Chance won the final race on a program there. The next morning the horse was brought out early for his morning walk. All of a sudden the gelding began to shiver and shake and attempted to

Mt. Savage at Barton (5:30)

Manager Norman Gerdeman's Cumberland Amvets packed their scoring punch into the late innings, chased ten runs over the platter in the sixth, seventh and eighth frames and racked up their 18th victory in 23 starts in the Bi-State Baseball League by downing the Frostburg Veterans of Foreign Wars at Taylor Field by the score of 14-11.

Frostburg held a 9-4 lead at the end of the fifth inning but was unable to hold it when the locals donned their batting togs in the last three stanzas.

Four of Frostburg's hits went for extra bases while the home team got 12 of their 13 from the offerings of Hoffman, including a double by Edgar "Ike" Cessna and a triple by Kenneth "Shake" Clark. Norris hammered a triple, double and single and Joe Langan and Harold Scott each had perfect days by getting four for four. Charley Strauss paced the Amvets with a two-bagger and two singles.

Art Donato, former West Virginia University southpaw, went the route for the Amvets and although nicked for 16 hits he forced 15 Frostburg runners to perish on the paths. He threw the third strike past eight batsmen and issued seven bases on balls. Hoffman walked four and hit two batsmen.

Winfield and Urbas of Frostburg and Strauss of the Amvets were the fielding stars.

Cumberland Rifle Club Scores Third Triumph

Outscores Six Teams At Frostburg Range

Continuing a series of victories, the Cumberland Rifle Club finished first in the fourth Western Maryland Rifle League small bore match held on the Frostburg range on Monday.

The Cumberland shooters again defeated their traditional rivals, the Fort Hill rifleman, by a score of 1956-89x as against 1949-73x for the Fort Hill Club. This gave the Cumberland Club three wins out of the four matches fired to date. Frostburg turned in 1940-63x to place third.

C. F. "Jack" Fulk, of Cumberland, captured high individual honors by posting 398-24x, which was also high score for the series. Second place went to Mrs. Henry Yates, of Frostburg, with 395-15x.

The match was fired from the prone position over the Dewar course, 20 shots at 50 yards and 20 shots at 100 yards, with iron sights. The fifth event will be fired in Frostburg on August 4. Scores:

Keegan Says 50 Police Needed

Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan expressed hope yesterday that at least 50 men will soon be employed by the Cumberland Police Department.

The loss of four regular officers through retirements and the employment of three others brings the total number of officers, active and probationary, to 44. Keegan originally asked for eight new men and so far he has received three.

Terming the department's present equipment "very good," Keegan said the big needs are a new cruiser and a paint truck. Three new Pontiac cruisers are now in operation.

The commissioner announced that a new traffic light has been received and will be placed in front of Central YMCA on Baltimore Street.

Anthony Drexel's Yacht Will Be A Floating Hotel

After a few voyages to Capetown, the 897-ton craft, the Barcarolle, will cruise in the West Indies and then go on to the U. S., says owner D. H. Clayton-Wright, explaining:

"Next year I plan to bring American tourists to Britain in the Barcarolle. They will visit south coast resorts such as Torquay, Brighton and Bournemouth.

"There is sure to be an acute shortage of hotel accommodations and so I propose that my passengers shall live on board."

Built in 1911 for the Grand Duke Ferdinand of Austria, the Barcarolle has accommodations for 93 passengers. She carries a crew of 30.

Find Way To Peace Is Through Stomach

The International Institute, with 1,059 active members representing 59 nationalities, meets weekly at its headquarters where members thrash out international problems over a different nation's favorite menu.

Almost any evening a visitor to the institute may find a Mexican sampling a Dutch kletskoppen or an Armenian woman trying out a Polish recipe for chicken, rice and fried noodles—or a group of Japanese, Ukranians and Russians "oh-ing" and "ah-ing" over swedish smorgasbord, sukiyaka or skish-kebaba.

"It's surprising what amicable decisions are reached here on international situations over a dish of ham and cabbage, a bowl of borsch or a dish of chop suey," an institute spokesman said.

Lepers In India Are Called Menace

BOMBAY, India. (AP) — G. H. Despande, member of the Bombay provincial legislative assembly from the holy city of Nasik, told his legislator colleagues in debate recently that because the police are afraid to touch a leper lest they become "contaminated," hundreds of lepers roam at large there and many actually sell vegetables to the public.

Demanding better facilities for the care of lepers and stronger efforts to isolate them, he estimated there are 1,200 lepers in his city, which has a population of less than 100,000.

Nasik is known as a holy city because it is the source of the sacred Godavari River, and Hindu mythology identifies it as the place where the holy figure of Lakshmana cut the nose from the face of a female demon. Roughly, Nasik means "nosy place."

GIs Abroad Tour Holland

THE HAGUE (AP)—An average of some 300 members of the American forces in Germany are touring the Netherlands daily, Major Raymond Bennett, recreation branch chief of the special service office, says.

Parties of 50 to 80 are pouring daily into the Netherlands for trips of three, five or seven days. In addition an average of some 40 to 50 individual visitors daily arrive from the American zone.

Organized trips cost $27, $35 and $44 for three, five or seven days, respectively. The tours are operated by the Dutch-Allied Goodwill Committee in Amsterdam, a non-profit organization.

Groups, traveling in buses, don't need any visas or passports, although they have to pass the Dutch customs officials at the German border.

Dollar Shortage Jams Chilean Port

VALPARAISO, Chile. (AP)—Shipping congestion in South American harbors has spread to this principal Chilean port.

Customs officals attribute the piling up of merchandise in warehouses and crowded shipping in the harbor to the postwar increase in trade. Modernization of the port is planned to provide more space.

Part of the warehouse congestion was attributed to a scarcity of dollars with which to release goods from customers, but government economists expect this foreign exchange deficit to be covered soon.

With Chile's exports, mainly nitrates and copper, bringing the government about $20,000,000 monthly, and with an eventual adjustment of imports to exports, they said the deficit should soon disappear.

Moslems Protest Tax On Mecca Pilgrimage

BOMBAY, India (AP) — Mualana Saifa Nadvi, Moslem editor, says an influential group of Indian Moslem theologians are attempting to organize Mohammedans throughout the world to demand abolition of the Saudi Arabian tax on the holy pilgrimage to Mecca—about $155 for each pilgrim.

"The pilgrimage to Mecca to pay honor to the prophet is a sacred thing for which Moslems sometimes save for nearly a lifetime," he says. "These tens of thousands of visitors are an important economic factor to Saudi Arabia. India annually sends about 20,000 pilgrims to Mecca to pray at the Prophet's Tomb."

A CENTURY OF U. S. POSTAGE STAMPS

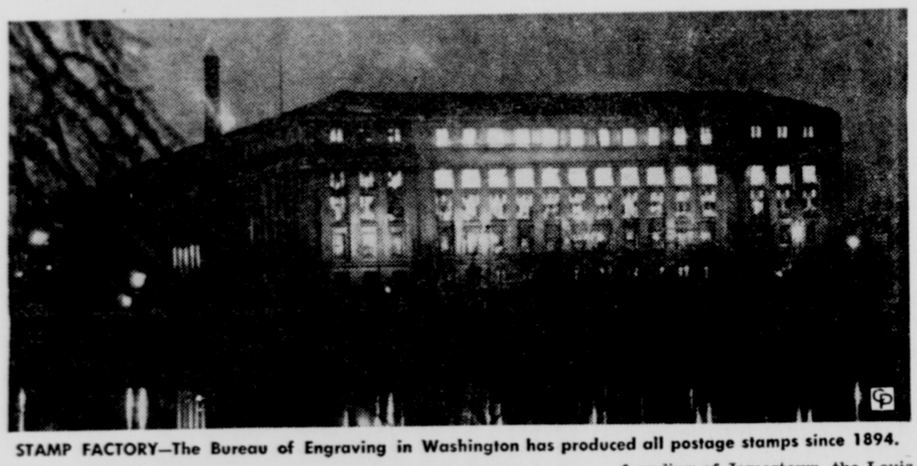
POST OFFICE MARKS ANNIVERSARY WITH SPECIAL ISSUES



STAMP FACTORY—The Bureau of Engraving in Washington has produced all postage stamps since 1894.

By MICHAEL F. CASSEL
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON — This year marks the one hundredth anniversary of the issuance of the first United States postage stamps. On March 3, 1847, Congress authorized Postmaster-General Charles A. Wickliff to issue postage stamps for the prepayment of postage on mail matter.

This innovation proved to be the most important single improvement in the history of the postal service in America. The sale of these stamps to the public provided an accurate and automatic check on the postage revenues as compared with the less uniform and more uncertain methods that had prevailed in the past.

The engraving concern of Rawdon, Wright, Hatch and Edson received the contract to print the first two stamps which were placed on sale at New York City on July 1, 1847.

The 5-cent value prepaid the postage on letters carried less than 300 miles, while the 10-cent stamp was the required fee for letters addressed beyond that distance.

SPECIAL souvenir sheets containing reproductions of these first United States stamps were printed and placed on sale at the International Philatelic exhibition in New York City. To distinguish these stamps from the originals, the 5-cent Franklin was printed in blue and the 10-cent Washington in red.

In addition to this souvenir sheet, the Post Office department will celebrate the centennial of United States stamps with a 3-cent commemorative stamp printed in blue and a 5-cent air-mail stamped envelope printed in red. These stamps will picture the evolution of transportation from the Pony Express rider to the modern plane.

SOUVENIR STAMP SHEET

STAMP ANNIVERSARY STAMPS

During the past century, postage stamps have honored many famous Americans. Twelve different series of postage stamps have been placed on sale; in addition, more than 100 special issues, commemorating hestorical events and individuals, have been printed.

In 1892 the Post Office department celebrated the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America with a special set of 16 stamps, ranging in value from 1 cent to $5. These stamps depicted various scenes in the life of Columbus.

Special series of postage stamps have also commemorated the founding of Jamestown, the Louisiana Purchase, the landing of the Pilgrims, and the sesquicentennial of American independence.

Our armed forces have been honored with stamps dedicated to each branch of the service. The most striking of these depicts the Marines raising the American flag at the summit of Mount Suribachi on Iwo Jima.

In addition to regular postage stamps, special stamps have been printed for special delivery, parcel post and air mail service. Special delivery provides immediate service between the hours of 7 a. m. and midnight in all cities, towns and villages having a population of 4,000 or more according to the federal census.

TWELVE special parcel post stamps were placed on sale in 1912, but their large size made them unpopular and Postmaster-General F. H. Hitchcock soon directed that ordinary stamps be valid for parcel fees and discontinued the issuance of distinctive stamps for this service.

Air-mail service between Washington, Philadelphia and New York was inaugurated May 15, 1918. A 24-cent air-mail stamp, printed in two colors, was prepared for the occasion.

In order to print these bi-colored stamps, the sheets were fed into the press twice, once to print the border and once to print the center. One sheet, with centers inverted, was sold over the counter at the Washington post office. Today, a single stamp from this sheet is valued at $3,500 by collectors.

The Bureau of Printing and Engraving has produced all United States postage stamps since 1894. Stamps are printed either by the flat bed method in sheets, or by the rotary press method in continuous rolls. They are sold in sheets, rolls and booklet form.

Over a million Americans, young and old, collect stamps as a hobby. This year they are joined by the nation in celebrating the one hundredth anniversary of the issuance of our first postage stamps.

Philippines Boost Chrome Shipments

MANILA—(AP)—Chrome ore shipments from Zambales province on the west coast of Luzon have increased to a point where this year's total is expected to be over 175,000 tons, mining sources here say.

The only mine which is in production at present is the Consolidated property, 100 miles northwest of Manila, which is operated by the American-controlled Benguet Consolidated Mininq Co. It expects to ship 12,000 tons of its refractory ore in March, equal to almost the entire 1946 production. Ore frome Consolidated Mine is used almost exclusively for blast furnace lining.

The Filipino-owned Acoje Mine in the same area is undergoing extensive reorganization. It owns what its engineers call the largest chrome deposit in the world. Acoje is expected to resume operations this year.

PRESENTS COAL PAINTING—An original painting by Rockwell Kent depicting the symbolic importance of coal to American life was presented to West Virginia University's president, Dr. Irvin Stewart, by J. ## Defendant Loses, But Still Wins

DANVILLE, Va. (AP) — The defendant was guilty and Magistrate Calvin Bey showed no mercy—imposing $32.70 in fines and costs.

The defendant—the city of Danville—didn't ask for mercy. It was guilty of violating its own ordinance because it failed to remove snow from in front of public buildings.

Court attaches said it was the most impersonal prosecution they had ever known. The fines and costs were carefully paid out of the city treasury into the city treasury.

Chile Foresees Oil Independence

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — A 1,000-barrel a day oil well in southern Chile and another gas-producing hole nearby have boosted the country's hopes of eventual oil independence.

Finance Minister German Pico Canaz has announced that the government is negotiating in the United States for the purchase of an 8,000-barrel a day gasoline refinery which would more than cover Chile's daily needs of 4,000 barrels. The refinery would be used for both Chilean and imported crude oil.

Boycott Supports Indian Caste Edict

BOMBAY, India. (AP)—The nationalist newspaper, the National Standard reports that caste Hindus and traders have started a boycott against two hotels in Saswad, near Poona, because the hotels have decided to admit Harijans as guests.

The newspaper said the boycott shut off the supply of milk and water to the hotels temporarily, as well as depriving them of guests. It added that members of the Harijan caste had been warned not to visit the hotels, and were taking the hint.

Anthony Drexel's Yacht Will Be A Floating Hotel

After a few voyages to Capetown, the 897-ton craft, the Barcarolle, will cruise in the West Indies and then go on to the U. S., says owner D. H. Clayton-Wright, explaining:

"Next year I plan to bring American tourists to Britain in the Barcarolle. They will visit south coast resorts such as Torquay, Brighton and Bournemouth.

"There is sure to be an acute shortage of hotel accommodations and so I propose that my passengers shall live on board."

Built in 1911 for the Grand Duke Ferdinand of Austria, the Barcarolle has accommodations for 93 passengers. She carries a crew of 30.

Find Way To Peace Is Through Stomach

The International Institute, with 1,059 active members representing 59 nationalities, meets weekly at its headquarters where members thrash out international problems over a different nation's favorite menu.

Almost any evening a visitor to the institute may find a Mexican sampling a Dutch kletskoppen or an Armenian woman trying out a Polish recipe for chicken, rice and fried noodles—or a group of Japanese, Ukranians and Russians "oh-ing" and "ah-ing" over swedish smorgasbord, sukiyaka or skish-kebaba.

"It's surprising what amicable decisions are reached here on international situations over a dish of ham and cabbage, a bowl of borsch or a dish of chop suey," an institute spokesman said.

Lepers In India Are Called Menace

BOMBAY, India. (AP) — G. H. Despande, member of the Bombay provincial legislative assembly from the holy city of Nasik, told his legislator colleagues in debate recently that because the police are afraid to touch a leper lest they become "contaminated," hundreds of lepers roam at large there and many actually sell vegetables to the public.

Demanding better facilities for the care of lepers and stronger efforts to isolate them, he estimated there are 1,200 lepers in his city, which has a population of less than 100,000.

Nasik is known as a holy city because it is the source of the sacred Godavari River, and Hindu mythology identifies it as the place where the holy figure of Lakshmana cut the nose from the face of a female demon. Roughly, Nasik means "nosy place."

Gis Abroad Tour Holland

THE HAGUE (AP)—An average of some 300 members of the American forces in Germany are touring the Netherlands daily, Major Raymond Bennett, recreation branch chief of the special service office, says.

Parties of 50 to 80 are pouring daily into the Netherlands for trips of three, five or seven days. In addition an average of some 40 to 50 individual visitors daily arrive from the American zone.

Organized trips cost $27, $35 and $44 for three, five or seven days, respectively. The tours are operated by the Dutch-Allied Goodwill Committee in Amsterdam, a non-profit organization.

Groups, traveling in buses, don't need any visas or passports, although they have to pass the Dutch customs officials at the German border.

Dollar Shortage Jams Chilean Port

VALPARAISO, Chile. (AP)—Shipping congestion in South American harbors has spread to this principal Chilean port.

Customs officals attribute the piling up of merchandise in warehouses and crowded shipping in the harbor to the postwar increase in trade. Modernization of the port is planned to provide more space.

Part of the warehouse congestion was attributed to a scarcity of dollars with which to release goods from customers, but government economists expect this foreign exchange deficit to be covered soon.

With Chile's exports, mainly nitrates and copper, bringing the government about $20,000,000 monthly, and with an eventual adjustment of imports to exports, they said the deficit should soon disappear.

Moslems Protest Tax On Mecca Pilgrimage

BOMBAY, India (AP) — Mualana Saifa Nadvi, Moslem editor, says an influential group of Indian Moslem theologians are attempting to organize Mohammedans throughout the world to demand abolition of the Saudi Arabian tax on the holy pilgrimage to Mecca—about $155 for each pilgrim.

"The pilgrimage to Mecca to pay honor to the prophet is a sacred thing for which Moslems sometimes save for nearly a lifetime," he says. "These tens of thousands of visitors are an important economic factor to Saudi Arabia. India annually sends about 20,000 pilgrims to Mecca to pray at the Prophet's Tomb."

A CENTURY OF U. S. POSTAGE STAMPS

POST OFFICE MARKS ANNIVERSARY WITH SPECIAL ISSUE!

By MICHAEL F. CASSEL

WASHINGTON — This year marks the one hundredth anniversary of the issuance of the first United States postage stamps. On March 3, 1847, Congress authorized Postmaster-General Charles A. Wickliff to issue postage stamps for the prepayment of postage on mail matter.

This innovation proved to be the most important single improvement in the history of the postal service in America. The sale of these stamps to the public provided an accurate and automatic check on the postage revenues as compared with the less uniform and more uncertain methods that had prevailed in the past.

The engraving concern of Rawdon, Wright, Hatch and Edson received the contract to print the first two stamps which were placed on sale at New York City on July 1, 1847.

The 5-cent value prepaid the postage on letters carried less than 300 miles, while the 10-cent stamp was the required fee for letters addressed beyond that distance.

SPECIAL souvenir sheets containing reproductions of these first United States stamps were printed and placed on sale at the International Philatelic exhibition in New York City. To distinguish these stamps from the originals, the 5-cent Franklin was printed in blue and the 10-cent Washington in red.

In addition to this souvenir sheet, the Post Office department will celebrate the centennial of United States stamps with a 3-cent commemorative stamp printed in blue and a 5-cent air-mail stamped envelope printed in red. These stamps will picture the evolution of transportation from the Pony Express rider to the modern plane.

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, July 16—Back in 1930, during the un-dear, dead days of the depression, a movie came along called "Ingagi" that was a shot in the arm to ailing box offices. In fact, the gory gorilla story pulled one theater chain completely out of the red.

While the picture was being such a terrific hit, no one would admit that the gorilla was played by a man. But later it came out that the sensational "animal" was really Charles Gemora, a clever make-up artist, who was more realistic in his costume than the real thing.

Louella Parsons

The reason Gemora is in our news this morning is that he is taking a lay off from his job in the Paramount make-up department to turn actor-producer again with a follow up to "Ingagi" titled "The Lady and the Gorilla". If history repeats itself at the box office, he may again top all cash records.

No, Gemora is not permanently giving up his job making up such Paramount belles as Betty Hutton and Paulette Goddard. He says he is just dusting off his monkey suit for one more movie fling.

Ruth Gordon and Garson Kanin saw Betty Hutton in "Perils of Pauline" and were completely sold on her. Ruth told me she thought Betty would be perfect in the movie version of Garson's play "Born Yesterday" which has been a solid New York hit.

I agree with Ruth, Betty would be wonderful as the dumb blonde who wrecks her racketeer boy friend — but, of course, she would have to be borrowed from Paramount. I have never seen anyone look as well as Ruth does these days. She's so happy in her marriage, that it does my heart good. She says that she and Garson have had such a good time in Hollywood while they have been writing the Ronald Colman picture for Billy Goetz.

There isn't a shred of truth in the report that James Mason is settling out of court the law suit Producer Dave Rose is bringing against him. The case comes up in September. Meanwhile Mason is reading the script of "John Paul Jones", and Raoul Walsh, the director, goes East to discuss it with him.

Al Parker, former Hollywood director, now a successful London agent, who is at Pickfair with his wife Margaret Johnson and his daughter Beverly Parker Paterno, told me that while he is here, he will discuss a deal for James Mason with several producers. Among them is William Goetz of Universal-International, who has several ideas in mind.

Pat Dane did not land that job in "Cagliostro" for which she went to Mexico. When Tommy Dorsey heard she had not gone to Reno, he sent word to her that he expected her to keep her part of the agreement. Sooooo, she immediately left for Reno, where she is now.

I talked with Edward Small today and he admitted there was some doubt whether they would make "Cagliostro" at all. He says that Gregory Ratoff, who is in Mexico City, is coming back to discuss it with him. Maybe they'll make it in Hollywood, but the Mexican idea is off.

Chatter in Hollywood: Judy Garland, who was so terribly ill last wek, is improving. Vincente Minnelli has moved her and the baby to the beach in Malibu, and he is spending all his time trying to get her back to health.

Judy is so talented it would be a pity if she didn't take hold of herself at once. During the making of "The Pirate" she was so ill that the picture was held up continually. Perhaps after a rest she'll be all right. That's what we all hope. She had to go into the studio today to remake a scene in "The Pirate".

Florida, here they come! I mean the Paramount gang to film "Tarpon Springs", an original story by A. Bezzerides. There is a Greek settlement there who make their living in the sponge industry. The author is Greek and knows the story well, about the family who went there and settled.

I had a funny letter from James Craig from the Duke of Windsor ranch where he's on location for Eagle-Lion.

"I've never known such friendly people as these town folk. When they heard that Jimmy's mom wasn't along, they organized a "sitters society" 100 strong! I mean, the kid has that many nurses." Then he added, "and considering the vitality of my pride and joy, that's not one too many."

Tomorrow, Mary Pickford and Gregory LaCava meet in court. He is suing Mary for alleged breach of contract.

Mrs. Mark Stevens will try for a dramatic career after she obtains her divorce from Mark Stevens. She will use her maiden name of Annelle Hayes.

The hymn, "A Christmas Carol," beginning, "In the bleak mid-winter frosty wind made moan," was written by Christina Georgina Rossetti (1830-1894). She is one of the really eminent English poets who have written religious verse.

Sam Helps with the Dishwashing

Dropped in at the Abernathy's just the other evening—and there was Sam, out in the kitchen with an apron on, helping his missus wash the supper dishes. (And then I learned later he'd helped cook the supper, too.)

Of course, Sam could have settled into his favorite chair, enjoyed his evening glass of beer, and left all the messy kitchenwork to Dixie. But he kind of likes her company—and she in turn certainly appreciates his help.

In fact, sharing the housework and the mealtime chores is sort of a bond between them . . . like sharing that friendly glass of beer together, when the work is done. It's one of those little all-important things in marriage.

From where I sit, the time that a man and wife can spend with each other in this busy world today is all too precious. And the more things they can do together, the better.

Military Training Will Be Discussed On Town Meeting

By JEAN MEEGAN
(for C. E. Butterfield)

NEW YORK, July 16—Heady audiences who feel that radio audiences should hunger after more than mere entertainment can have a big evening. From 7:30 until 10 on ABC tonight nothing lighter than a drama about some late president of the U. S.

At 7:30 the big thinkers get their heads with America's Town Meeting and a debate about "Is Universal Military Training Necessary for Our National Security?"

The broadcast will originate from the Campus of the University of Utah and the stars scheduled are Norman Thomas, George Fielding Eliot, Leif Erikson, and Brigadier-General John M. Devine.

At 9, Rep. George H. Bender, (R-Ohio) will make the pronouncement from Washington "The Poll Tax Should Be Abolished Now". Immediately thereafter Albert Einstein will speak on and be questioned about "Immediate Need For World Law" by Cord Meyer, Jr., President of the United World Federalists and Raymond Swing, the Commentator.

The International Missionary Council's first assembly since 1939 will be broadcast at 9:30.

Radio in Review

By JOHN CROSBY

Morgan On Give-Aways

There are two alternatives staring me in the eye today, one of which blinks hideously. This blinking horror is a radio program called "Arthur's Place,' a comedy show which has almost paralyzed my critical faculties. Sooner or later we will have to get around to "Arthur's Place" but not today. Some other time. Next week, a year, maybe.

John Crosby

The other and far pleasanter alternative is to present a condensed version of one of Henry Morgan's last shows of the year. This, I confess, is one of the easiest ways to write a radio column there is; yet these scripts make highly readable columns. In fact, the most successful column I ever wrote was a condensation of Fred Allen and Tallulah Bankhead's now famous parody on breakfast programs. This has been acclaimed as my masterpiece by many persons who forget, or are too polite to mention, that I didn't write any of it except the introductory paragraph.

On his program, Mr. Morgan interviewed several regular give-away contestants, primarily to discover how they pass the summer months when the give-aways go off the air. Go ahead Henry. You're on the air:

MORGAN: What is your name, please?

SADIE: Sadie Doubledrip. I come from Hoboken. Occupation housewife and I'll select Number Five. Different varieties of plant lice. What's the first question?

MORGAN: But since you're here, perhaps you'll tell us something about your experiences with give-away prizes.

SADIE: I've been on 'em all. "Take it or Else." "People Are People," "Tell the Truth or Get Your Arm Busted.' But my biggest honor came when I was picked for the highest honor an American girl can receive.

MORGAN: And what was that?

SADIE: I was chosen "Schlemiel for a Day." I was struck dumb for a moment.

MORGAN: I'm glad you got over it.

SADIE: Then on this "Truth or Get Your Arm Busted" program, I won second prize. I hadda go down in a coal mine and stay there until I mined a ton of coal.

MORGAN: That's a fine prize.

MORGAN: What happened when she got back?

MORGAN: Well, I know you're going to have a long summer with all those shows off the air. What do you plan to do?

MORGAN: Thank you, Mrs. D. And now, here is the next professional contestant. Your name, please?

HECTOR: Hector Doubledrip.

HECTOR: That's my wife.

MORGAN: And how long have you known each other?

Hector: We met on the "Meet Your Mate" show. Then we was married on the "Hubbie and Wifie" program. I could sue them people. Everything I got on that program either tarnished or wore out.

HECTOR: It's like this—A young couple wants to get married during the hot weather. They gotta get married in a church or down City Hall. A fine way to start life—on sustaining.

MORGAN: You must have amassed a considerable amount of loot.

HECTOR: Yeah, I got twelve refrigerators, eight radios . . .

MORGAN: Eight radios? What did you do with them?

HECTOR: Sold 'em. Who's home to listen? Then I got ten cases of Crackercorn, that breakfast food that snaps, crackles and bangs.

MORGAN: Did you eat it?

HECTOR: Nah, we're going to set it off on the Fourth of July.

Morgan will devote the rest of the summer to playing with his miniature railroad, but he'll be back in the fall, presumably same time, same station and, despite all those remarks about Eversharp, same sponsor.

The peak wartime strength of service women in the United States service reached 210,731 on V-J Day. About 25,000 are still in service in the Army, Navy and Marines. The Coast Guard Spars were demobilized in July, 1946.

ALONG THE POTOMAC TO WASHINGTON

By J. GLENN BEALL
(Member of Congress from Maryland Sixth District)

IN THE SHADOW OF THE DOME

Men of the famous 29th Infantry Division who lost their lives overseas and are buried in La Cambe Cemetery will be removed to St. Laurent Cemetery which will be a permanent one. St. Laurent commands a beautiful view of the sea and is just a few miles from La Cambe and near the interesting town of Bayeux in France. I know many families in Maryland will want to know more details about this cemetery and I shall be glad to write every particular that I learned from Colonel Hinman of the War Department.

After receiving many letters relative to nonreceipt of subsistence checks and unnecessarily delayed payments, I brought this matter to the attention of General Bradley of the Veterans Administration. I believe that the General will work out a plan whereby the veterans will receive their checks on time. All of us can appreciate how important it is for the Veterans to get these checks on time, since very few ex G.I.'s have any other means of support for themselves or families. If any delays are noted, I would like to hear about them.

Since I realize that fixed pensions must be increased in order to keep up with the steady rising of living costs, you can realize my attitude when the Congressional Record through error recorded me as not voting for the bill to increase Spanish and Civil War pensions. I did vote for the bill and the mistake has been changed in the permanent record.

I hope the Agriculture Committee of the House will give some consideration to my suggestion that surplus canned goods be sent to Europe in the relief shipments that are being sent. Otherwise, an unnecessary hardship will be placed on the canners and growers.

TAX REDUCTION

Perhaps you would be interested in what I told the House of Representatives last Tuesday concerning the Individual Income Tax Reduction Act of 1947. Naturally I was disappointed that the President saw fit to veto H.R. 1, the income tax reduction program for 1947. It is generally admitted that the best way to stimulate employment is to encourage individuals and business concerns to put money for expansion back into their own businesses. This is just good common sense. And if this is done, it naturally follow that we will have full employment with adequate wages for the worker.

Let's turn the calendar back to 1920. We had just finished a World War. Congress decreased the taxes and much to the surprise of everyone, the budget was balanced in 1921. Taxes were reduced again in 1921 for 1922 and 1923. Again in 1924 taxes came down.

What happened. Business boomed. More revenue came to the Treasury. It increased by over a billion yearly. Industry benefited. Labor's wages went up and the farmers who had been bankrupt, came to Washingtin to thank the President of the United States for what he had done for the farmers.

Several governors also reduced taxes. They were not worried about tax reduction; they were getting all of the benefits of tax reduction. Again in 1926, the U. S. Government reduced taxes and the budget was balanced and there was a surplus for debt reduction. Has the science of economics changed in 20 years? I think not.

In my opinion, this legislation is just a year late in going into effect. I also feel that the reduction could and shofild be greater for those income taxpayers in the smaller brackets. I think legislation in this vein is a step in the right direction and if it is enacted it will accomplish three things: First, lift the burden on 49,000,000 individual taxpayers; second, permit business to prosper; and, third, increase the gross revenue to the Federal Government.

The House of Representatives passed by a vote of 302-112 a new tax bill which is identical with H. R. 1, except that it would take effect January 1, 1948 instead of July 1, 1947. As you know it provides for a tax slash of from 30 percent on low income to 10½ percent of high incomes.

The President said he would veto this bill also. I hope he will change his mind and this failing, I hope the Senate will override his veto. I am sure the House will.

The House passed the Presidential Succession Bill which provides that whenever there are simultaneous vacancies in the office of President and Vice President, the Speaker of the House, if qualified, shall become President for the unexpired term. At present the line of succession begins with the Secretary of State and goes right on down the line of the Cabinet in order of seniority. Since Mr. Truman urged the adoption of this measure because he feels that elected officials rather than appointed ones should succeed him, it is expected that he will sign the bill.

Letters in the first books printed from movable types by Johann Gutenberg of Manz, Germany, in the middle of the 15th century, were modeled after the hand letters of medieval scribes.

Military Training Will Be Discussed On Town Meeting

By JEAN MEEGAN
(for C. E. Butterfield)

NEW YORK, July 16—Heady audiences who feel that radio audiences should hunger after more than mere entertainment can have a big evening. From 7:30 until 10 on ABC tonight nothing lighter than a drama about some late president of the U. S.

At 7:30 the big thinkers get their heads with America's Town Meeting and a debate about "Is Universal Military Training Necessary for Our National Security?"

The broadcast will originate from the Campus of the University of Utah and the stars scheduled are Norman Thomas, George Fielding Eliot, Leif Erikson, and Brigadier-General John M. Devine.

At 9, Rep. George H. Bender, (R-Ohio) will make the pronouncement from Washington "The Poll Tax Should Be Abolished Now". Immediately thereafter Albert Einstein will speak on and be questioned about "Immediate Need For World Law" by Cord Meyer, Jr., President of the United World Federalists and Raymond Swing, the Commentator.

The International Missionary Council's first assembly since 1939 will be broadcast at 9:30.

RADIO IN REVIEW

Morgan On Give-Aways

There are two alternatives staring me in the eye today, one of which blinks hideously. This blinking horror is a radio program called "Arthur's Place," a comedy show which has almost paralyzed my critical faculties. Sooner or later we will have to get around to "Arthur's Place" but not today. Some other time. Next week, a year, maybe.

John Crosby

The other and far pleasanter alternative is to present a condensed version of one of Henry Morgan's last shows of the year. This, I confess, is one of the easiest ways to write a radio column there is; yet these scripts make highly readable columns. In fact, the most successful column I ever wrote was a condensation of Fred Allen and Tallulah Bankhead's now famous parody on breakfast programs. This has been acclaimed as my masterpiece by many persons who forget, or are too polite to mention, that I didn't write any of it except the introductory paragraph.

On his program, Mr. Morgan interviewed several regular give-away contestants, primarily to discover how they pass the summer months when the give-aways go off the air. Go ahead Henry. You're on the air:

MORGAN: What is your name, please?

SADIE: Sadie Doubledrip. I come from Hoboken. Occupation housewife and I'll select Number Five. Different varieties of plant lice. What's the first question?

SADIE: Trapped!

MORGAN: But since you're here, perhaps you'll tell us something about your experiences with give-away prizes.

SADIE: I've been on 'em all. "Take it or Else." "People Are People," "Tell the Truth or Get Your Arm Busted." But my biggest honor came when I was picked for the highest honor an American girl can receive.

MORGAN: And what was that?

SADIE: I was chosen "Schlemiel for a Day." I was struck dumb for a moment.

MORGAN: I'm glad you got over it.

SADIE: Then on this "Truth or Get Your Arm Busted" program, I won second prize. I hadda go down in a coal mine and stay there until I mined a ton of coal.

MORGAN: That's a fine prize.

SADIE: Yeah, but the lucky dame that won first prize, they sent her up in a rocket—sailing into interplanetary space.

MORGAN: What happened when she got back?

MORGAN: Well, I know you're going to have a long summer with all those shows off the air. What do you plan to do?

MORGAN: Thank you, Mrs. D. And now, here is the next professional contestant. Your name, please?

HECTOR: Hector Doubledrip.

HECTOR: That's my wife.

MORGAN: And how long have you known each other?

Hector: We met on the "Meet Your Mate" show. Then we was married on the "Hubbie and Wifie" program. I could sue them people. Everything I got on that program either tarnished or wore out.

HECTOR: It's like this—A young couple wants to get married during the hot weather. They gotta get married in a church or down City Hall. A fine way to start life—on sustaining.

MORGAN: You must have amassed a considerable amount of loot.

HECTOR: Yeah, I got twelve refrigerators, eight radios . . .

MORGAN: Eight radios? What did you do with them?

HECTOR: Sold 'em. Who's home to listen? Then I got ten cases of Crackercorn, that breakfast food that snaps, crackles and bangs.

MORGAN: Did you eat it?

HECTOR: Nah, we're going to set it off on the Fourth of July.

Morgan will devote the rest of the summer to playing with his miniature railroad, but he'll be back in the fall, presumably same time, same station and, despite all those remarks about Eversharp, same sponsor.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this means of publicly expressing sincere thanks to those of our friends and neighbors who were so sympathetic and helpful during the illness and following the death of our beloved son, Joseph Frank Summers. We are grateful for the use of cars for the funeral, to those who sent floral tributes, and to all others who in any manner rendered assistance.

MR. & MRS. J. O. SUMMERS and Daughters.

We desire to extend our heartfelt thanks to all who aided and comforted us in our recent sad bereavement, the death of our beloved husband and father. Especially do we thank the pallbearers, those who donated the use of their cars, those who send floral offerings, and the minister, Rev. Allen Fisher, for his comforting words.

MRS. WARD N. HAUGER & SON.

No. 20149 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of divorce divorcing the plaintiff from the defendant A VINCULO MATRIMONII. The Bill states that the parties were married at Baltimore, Maryland on December 30th, 1944; that no children were born of said marriage, that the defendant deserted and abandoned the plaintiff without just cause or reason and that said abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for over eighteen months and is final and deliberate, and that the separation of the parties is beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation; that the plaintiff is a resident of Allegany County whereas the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland.

It is thereupon this 9th day of July, 1947, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, in Equity, ordered that the plaintiff by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County once a week for four successive weeks, before the 10th day of August, 1947, giving notice to the absent defendant of the object and substance of this bill, and warning her to be and appear in this court in person or by solicitor on or before the 26th day of August, 1947, and show cause why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

Clerk.

Stock Dealings Are Quiet As Easy Tendencies Prevail Throughout Day

NEW YORK, July 16 (AP) — Individual stocks absorbed further selling today with a fair amount of success although many market leaders continued to rest in the minus ranks.

Dealings were quiet and easier tendencies prevailed from the start. Motors revived approaching the final hour and activity picked up a bit. Transfers exceeded the million-share mark for the eleventh straight session, amounting to 1,070,000 shares against 1,180,000 Tuesday.

Recording highs for 1947 were Chrysler, up 1⅝ at 61⅞; Lion Oil 2 at 55, Bendix Home Appliances 1½ at 23⅛ and Standard Oil of Ohio 1⅜ at 29⅜.

Allied Chemical added 2½ at 189, West Indies Sugar 1½ at 27⅜ and Du Pont 1⅛ at 195¼. Lesser gainers included U. S. Steel, General Motors, Deere, Oliver Corp., Caterpillar Tractor, International Telephone, Columbia Gas, Cerro De Pasco, Air Reduction, General Electric, United Air Lines, Great Northern Railway and Northern Pacific.

Losers of 1 to 2 points were Douglas Aircraft at 54, Pacific Western Oil 34, Mission Corp. 38, J. C. Penney 45¾, International Harvester 93 and Youngstown Sheet 67¼. Others on the downside were Republic Steel, U. S. Rubber, Goodyear, Goodrich, Sears Roebuck, United Aircraft, American Telephone, Santa Fe, N. Y., Central Southern Railway, Kennecott, American Smelting Westinghouse, Philip Morris, International Paper, Schenley and Standard Oil (NJ).

Ahead in the curb were Bridgeport Oil, Glen Alden Coal and Perfect Circle. Backward were Aluminum of America, Cuban Atlantic Sugar, Standard Cap and selected industries. Turnover here was 250,000 shares versus 280,000 yesterday.

U. S. Governments moved narrowly in the over-the-counter market, the Victory Loan 2½s of '67-'72 holding at 102 23-32.

Reece Says Truman Currying Wallace

Hope of overriding in Congress a second presidential veto of the $4,000,000,000 income tax reduction bill "has not been abandoned," B. Carroll Reece, chairman of the Republican National Committee, said here last night.

Reece, en route by plane to Washington from a 78th birthday anniversary celebration for M. L. Benedum, one of the world's best known oil men, in Pittsburgh, landed here after a severe electrical storm was encountered east of this city.

"So important a matter as a tax problem should be considered without reference to politics," the GOP national chairman declared in a brief interview, "but," he added, "if the President wants to incur the risk embodied in a veto in the hope of currying favor with Henry Wallace, we have no objection."

Reece asserted: "It is inconceivable why anyone should oppose at this time a reduction from the wartime peak in personal income taxes. The hope of overriding the veto has not been abandoned."

He viewed the proposed tax reduction as a "boon to the country at this time and a great relief to the people who have borne such a heavy burden."

Questioned as to the outlook in Maryland in the recount of the 1946 Senatorial election in which Herbert R. O'Conor defeated D. John Markey of Walkersville by a slim margin, Reece said that "up to the present it looks as if Markey has an excellent chance of winning. I really think he will win. He will be a fine asset to the United States Senate."

Reece, however, had no comment as to who may be the Republican party's choice for the Presidential nomination in 1948, but he expressed confidence that "our nominee will win."

Parrying the question with a smile, the party's chairman replied: "We have never had so large a number of men who have gained the confidence of the people. All are well qualified. My concern is to construct a vehicle on which the nominee, whoever he be, can ride to victory in 1948."

Youth, 18, Admits Theft Of Truck, 22 Cases Of Ale

Vehicle Is Found In Back Of Church

City Police took into custody yesterday a Cumberland youth who, they said, later admitted in a statement that he stole a truck in Corriganville on July 9 and used it to carry away 22 cases of ale he took from another truck in Cumberland.

The youth, booked as James Welsh, 18, 944 Gay Street, was arrested at his home yesterday afternoon by Detective Edwin Lilya and Sgt. R. R. Johnston and made a statement to those officers at Police Headquarters.

The stolen truck was found abandoned yesterday morning in the rear of St. Mary's Catholic Church, and police said it belonged to B. V. Welsh, LaVale lumber dealer.

James Welsh told officers the keys were in the ignition when he took the vehicle from its parking place in Corriganville, and he added that he had seen the machine parked there previously with the keys in it.

After taking the truck, officers said Welsh told them, he drove to Cumberland where he "rode around" and then drove out Bedford Road.

About 3 a. m. he saw a truck loaded with beer parked at Bell's Service Station on Bedford Street and pilfered 22 cases of ale, loading them on the stolen truck, officers quoted Welsh as saying.

After stealing the beer, Welsh said he took the cases to his home and hid them in a shed in the yard, police related, adding that he then drove the truck to the yard in the rear of the church.

Welsh also admitted attempting to steal an automobile on Pearl Street but said he was frightened away, according to his statement.

Welsh is scheduled to be taken to the office of the State's Attorney this morning.

Commander Clarence R. Beiser, USNR, Naval Reserve Procurement Officer, Fifth Naval District, pointed out that the Naval Reserve program should be particularly attractive to non-veterans between the ages of 17 and 20 since, from that group, the President annually may appoint 160 men to the United States Naval Academy in Annapolis.

Patch Is Jailed In Liquor Case

Ralph Edgar Patch, 25, South Centre Street, was committed to the county jail for 90 days yesterday afternoon in default of a $500 fine imposed by Magistrate Frank A. Perdew after the local man pleaded guilty to a charge of giving alcoholic beverage to a minor girl.

Patch, commandant of Francis K. Finan Detachment, Marine Corps League, entered a plea of guilty Tuesday and admitted he gave Florence Lee, 17, 100 Roberts Street, a drink of gin in the Marine Club, South Mechanic Street, last Friday night.

A fine of $100 was also imposed by Magistrate Perdew on A. Joseph Chorpenning, under whose name the club's liquor license was obtained. He was released after paying the fine.

Authorities pointed out that Chorpenning, who entered a plea of not guilty, was automatically charged with the same offense as Patch since his name is on the liquor license. He was not directly involved in the act and was not present when Patch, on his own admission, gave the girl a drink of gin at the local Marine Club, attaches said.

Lease Contracts Being Studied At Rent Office

Rent Administrator Caleb J. White said rent office workers are checking the agreements, which will be approved or disapproved depending upon how they meet requirements of the act. A 15 per cent increase in rentals on leases extending through December 31, 1948, is allowed provided the tenant agrees.

Without such an agreement, White emphasized, landlords are required by law to charge no more than the rent prevailing on June 30, 1947, and to continue furnishing the same equipment and service as of that date.

Any rents collected in excess of June 30 rates are considered overcharges, subject to legal action by tenants for treble damages, court costs and attorney fees.

Two Movies Booked For Camera Club

Two sound movies, "The Family Album," dealing with photographic lighting problems, and "Flash Photography Is Good Photography" will be shown at the meeting of the Cumberland Camera Club next Wednesday, July 23 at 8 p. m.

Instruction offered in the film will work with flash, floodlight and spotlight and can be used with either movies or still pictures.

Both "The Family Album" and "Flash Photography Is Good Photography" are General Electric films and were obtained by Curl's Camera Shop.

One Owner Wants To Sell Her Interest

Asking a court decree for the sale of a property in Midland, Mary Beatrice Eagan filed suit in Circuit Court yesterday against Edward B. Eagan.

The bill of complaint states that on October 10, 1942, John A. Eagan conveyed the property to Miss Eagan, his daughter, and to Eagan, his son, as joint tenants with right of survivorship.

Miss Eagan asserts that she wants her interests sold but adds that the defendant refuses to agree on any definite sum he will pay for the one-half interest she has in the property.

Through her attorney, Clarence Shutter, Miss Eagan asserts that it will be to the best interest of the parties that the real estate be sold and the proceeds distributed.

BALTIMORE, July 16 (AP)—Maryland's Legislative Council plans to go to Cumberland and the state's two westernmost counties for its next meeting, early in August.

State Senator Robert Kimble, Republican leader from Allegany County and a member of the council, said one of the main purposes would be to give members a chance to study local government problems with officials of Garrett and Allegany Counties.

The tour will include a visit to Frostburg State Teachers' College, and Kimble said he hoped it would convince the council that the college "should not be abandoned or moved from the hills of Western Maryland."

Such a proposal was made by the State Commission on Higher Education.

Council members will entrain from Baltimore and Washington and arrive in Cumberland Wednesday night, August 6. The next day they will embark on a tour of industrial plants, coal mines, state forests, and other points of interest.

Ridgeley School Is Sixth In Nation To Get Watchmaking Certification

Morgan's Vocational School, Ridgeley, W. Va., became the sixth school in the nation to be certified for its watchmaking equipment and instruction, following an inspection visit Tuesday by A. S. Roe, Indianapolis, Ind., first vice president of the Horological Institute of America and chairman of the institute's board of school certification.

The school, with an enrollment of 85 World War II veterans from Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia, Kentucky, Ohio and Pennsylvania, is operated by Paul Morgan, a certified watchmaker, who has been in the watchmaking profession for the past 15 years. He is a member of the institute's advisory council.

Opened about 18 months ago in the old Knobley Hill grade school building, the school has seven instructors, five teaching watchmaking, and the other two teaching mathematics and mechanical drawing, and machine shop practice. The course lasts two years, and each student is a member of the Horological Institute of America, which numbers about 2,600 members in the United States.

During Roe's all-day visit at the Ridgeley school, a colored film was shown on watch cleaning, and a question and answer period was conducted by one of the instructors, Howard Burns, Cumberland, a former Army officer. Roe, who is also chairman of the Indiana Watchmaking Examiners Board, gave an address on the importance of good workmanship in watchmaking.

Junior watchmakers' and certified watchmakers' examinations are conducted by the Horological Institute, which supplies mutilated watches to students for repair. Roe and the board of examiners check their efforts for accuracy and workmanship, and the repaired watches are also examined by the United States Bureau of Standards for timing.

Roe has been active in the watchmaking and timing profession for the past 42 years. His visit to Rodgeley was the first he has made in this area.

Other schools which have been certified are Bowman's Technical Institute, Lancaster, Pa.; Elgin Watchmakers College, Elgin, Ill.; Waltham Watchmakers College, Waltham, Mass.; Bradley Technical Institute, Peoria, Ill., and the Department of Horology at New York State College, New York City.

GOP Leader And Democrat Find Common Meeting Ground Here

Reece And Randolph Land At Airport

Cumberland's airport proved a common meeting ground last night for the chairman of the Republican National Committee and a former West Virginia Democratic Congressman who left the impression he may again cast his hat into the political ring in 1948.

B. Carroll Reece, GOP national chairman, who served 24 years in Congress from Tennessee, and Jennings Randolph, who served 12 years in the House of Representatives, from the second West Virginia district, landed at the local airport when their twin engine Beechcraft plane turned back after encountering a severe electrical storm near Martinsburg, W. Va.

Together they left Washington yesterday at 11 a. m. to attend in Pittsburgh a 78th anniversary luncheon for M. L. Benedum, Clarksburg, W. Va., native, who has come to be known as the greatest "wildcatter" in the oil business.

Hard To Convince

They were returning to Washington when they landed here about 6:30 p. m. in a Capital Airlines plane piloted by Art M. Soper, Jr., and William M. Cason.

Randolph, now assistant to the president of Capital Airlines, laughingly remarked to a reporter that Reece had spent the hour and five minutes flying time to Pittsburgh yesterday morning "trying to convince me that a Republican would be elected president next year."

Queried as to the possibility of him seeking to regain his seat in the House of Representatives next year, Randolph answered only with a smile. However, he left the impression that he is giving the matter serious consideration.

Both Reece and Randolph were on the speaking list at the luncheon for Benedum, for whom Clarksburg's Benedum Airport is named.

Randolph Presents Certificate

Among the 100 business, political and civic leaders attending the luncheon besides Randolph and Reece, who is the husband of the former Miss Louise Goff, daughter of former United States Senator Guy D. Goff, of Clarksburg, were former Gov. M. M. Neely of West Virginia, E. T. Weir, of Weirton Steel; Dr. D. S. Bond, of Salem College, Salem, W. Va.; William Boyd, New York City, president of the American Petroleum Institute; and Walter S. Hallanan, Republican national committeeman for West Virginia.

Weir, Hallanan and Neely also were on the speakers' list.

Eastern Section Of W. Va. Will Air Flood Program

Meeting Will Be Held In Romney

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 16 (AP)—Plans initiating a coordinated flood control program in Eastern West Virginia counties lying within the Potomac River region will be formed July 29 at a meeting in Romney, State Forester William B. Sayers announced today.

He emphasized, however, that the proposed work does not include engineering projects. It represents simply an effort to "initiate a sound action program to solve water problems in one section of the state" by improved land-management practices in non-farm woodlands, Sayers added.

The program has been made possible by newly-appropriated federal funds distributed through the U. S. Forest Service to West Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania and Virginia.

The West Virginia allotment for the present fiscal year amounts to $6,600, but Sayers said this would be supplemented by state funds in bringing "every acre of forest land" in Grant, Mineral, Hardy, Hampshire and Pendleton counties under a definite management plan.

Similar work will be carried out later in Berkeley, Morgan and Jefferson counties.

The forester explained that the South Branch district of the Conservation Commission's Forestry Division now includes the eastern counties to be covered by the work. The South Branch area, he added, will be divided into at least three sub-watersheds to facilitate the introduction of new water-control practices.

Attending the Romney meeting will be representatives of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, the Monongahela National Forest, West Virginia University College of Agriculture and Agricultural Extension Service, the U. S. Forest Service, the Monongahela Power Company and the State Conservation Commission.

Feete and Brother Funeral Home in Brunswick, with Rev. Mr. Say, pastor of the Methodist Church there, officiating. Interment will be in Park Heights Cemetery, Brunswick.

A funeral service for the other victim, Thomas D. Stump, 31-year-old veteran of World War II, also of 919 Maryland Avenue, will be held at the Hafer Funeral Home here. Rev. Jesse W. Whitacre, pastor of the Church of the Brethren, Wiley Ford, W. Va., will officiate, and interment will be in the Shannon Cemetery at Springfield, W. Va.

He had resided for many years in Brunswick, where he was employed as a caller by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. In later years he was employed as a janitor at the YMCA in Baltimore, before coming to Cumberland when he retired. His wife, Mrs. Jennie Hill Cornelius, died a number of years ago.

Hyndman Man Drives Bricker To Safety

Jerry W. Albright, 26, a native of Hyndman, was the operator of the senate subway car which sped Sen. John W. Bricker, (R-Ohio) from an armed assailant, who fired two shots at him with a .22 calibre pistol Saturday.

Albright stated that Sen. Bricker jumped into the car used to carry senators and their guests from tte Senate Office Building to the Capitol, and told him to "get out of here" after the first shot was fired.

The senator and his friend were walking toward the car when the first attempt at his life was made by William L. Kaiser, 49, an ex-capital policeman. As he gave the order the Hyndman man said he saw Kaiser shoot the second time.

After making the trip back to the office building he said the ex-policeman, was still standing there. Shortly afterwards the assailant walked out of one of the best policed building in the world without being stopped.

Mayor To Introduce Order On Monday

Mayor Thomas S. Post informed the three members of the Board of Zoning Appeals at their meeting last night in City Hall that he will introduce an order at Monday's council meeting for payment of $120 to each member per year for their services, effective as of July 1.

The board had previously requested the Mayor and Council to approve payment of $5 to each member per case handled.

The mayor praised William M. Weatherholt, chairman; Joseph R. Manthely and Charles Paul Roeder for their work in hearing appeals for occupancy permits, and in inspecting sites involved in the application. Service on the board, which was established after the city zoning ordinance was passed in November, 1944, has been on a voluntary basis.

Thomas Lohr Richards and James Alfred Avirett, trustees for the Charles Langer estate, appeared before the board to appeal for a permit to use a two-story brick building at 501 North Centre Street, formerly occupied by a grocery store, for an office and store, and to use a vacant lot at the rear of the building to construct a cleaning plant.

They explained that the appeal was a provisional one on behalf of George M. Young, owner of the nearby Star Dye Works plant on Necessity Street, who is interested in purchasing the North Centre Street property.

The board decided to hold the application in abeyance pending a trustees' sale of the property on July 30 at public auction, and to grant the permit if Young buys the property.

It was voted to change the board's meeting night from the first and third Wednesday of each month to the second Wednesday only. The change will become effective next month. If necessary, however, special meetings will be held at the chairman's order. The next regular meeting will be held August 13.

City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer yesterday granted a permit to DeSales Mattingly, 313 Caroline Avenue, to build a five-room house on Lot 118, Utah Avenue, at an estimated cost of $5,000. The one and a half story building will measure 24 by 28 feet with a concrete block foundation frame walls covered with ensulated brick siding, and roof of asphalt shingles. Work will be done by the owner.

POLICE UNIFORMS NEED GLAMOUR, STYLIST SAYS

The Maryland State Trooper uniform needs a glamourizing job done, according to Henry L. Jackson, noted men's wear stylist and fashion editor of Collier's magazine, who wrote a letter to that effect from New York to Capt. Ruxton M. Ridgely, of the State Police.

Jackson, who as civilian consultant to the War Department has designed many of the Army's new type uniforms, including the "Eisenhower" jacket, went on to volunteer his services gratis to the Maryland State Police in smartening up the force's uniforms.

His letter read as follows: "For many years I have been covering events in Maryland, such as The Maryland Hunt Club races, Pimlico and Laurel because these places are "style setters". Many Maryland men originate men's fashions so I am in your hospitable and gracious State often. I have, like so many others, been very much impressed with the men of the Maryland State Police. They are a fine group of public-spirited men. Yesterday, when I read that you are engaged in a recruiting drive to attract more men to a career in the Maryland State Police, this thought occurred to me.

"Clothes make the man", we stylists believe. And I think if the Maryland State Police uniform had an added touch of glamour and smartness, it would help you get the right kind of volunteers. Please don't get me wrong, Captain, you have a good uniform now, a fine uniform, but I have a few suggestions I'd like to make to give your men a more dashing appearance. With your permission, I would like to send you some sketches to visualize my ideas."

Capt. Ridgely has reported Jackson's offer to Col. Beverly Ober, superintendent of the State Police, and to Karl F. Steinmann, chairman of the recruiting campaign, which officially starts Friday, with a luncheon at Hotel Emerson under the sponsorship of the Advertising Club of Baltimore.

Reece Says Truman Currying Wallace

Hope of overriding in Congress a second presidential veto of the $4,000,000,000 income tax reduction bill "has not been abandoned," B. Carroll Reece, chairman of the Republican National Committee, said here last night.

Reece, en route by plane to Washington from a 78th birthday anniversary celebration for M. L. Benedum, one of the world's best known oil men, in Pittsburgh, landed here after a severe electrical storm was encountered east of this city.

"So important a matter as a tax problem should be considered without reference to politics," the GOP national chairman declared in a brief interview, "but," he added, "if the President wants to incur the risk embodied in a veto in the hope of currying favor with Henry Wallace, we have no objection."

Reece asserted: "It is inconceivable why anyone should oppose at this time a reduction from the wartime peak in personal income taxes. The hope of overriding the veto has not been abandoned."

He viewed the proposed tax reduction as a "boon to the country at this time and a great relief to the people who have borne such a heavy burden."

Questioned as to the outlook in Maryland in the recount of the 1946 Senatorial election in which Herbert R. O'Conor defeated D. John Markey of Walkersville by a slim margin, Reece said that "up to the present it looks as if Markey has an excellent chance of winning. I really think he will win. He will be a fine asset to the United States Senate."

Reece, however, had no comment as to who may be the Republican party's choice for the Presidential nomination in 1948, but he expressed confidence that "our nominee will win."

Parrying the question with a smile, the party's chairman replied: "We have never had so large a number of men who have gained the confidence of the people. All are well qualified. My concern is to construct a vehicle on which the nominee, whoever he be, can ride to victory in 1948."

Youth, 18, Admits Theft Of Truck, 22 Cases Of Ale

Vehicle Is Found In Back Of Church

City Police took into custody yesterday a Cumberland youth who, they said, later admitted in a statement that he stole a truck in Corriganville on July 9 and used it to carry away 22 cases of ale he took from another truck in Cumberland.

The youth, booked as James Welsh, 18, 944 Gay Street, was arrested at his home yesterday afternoon by Detective Edwin Lilya and Sgt. R. R. Johnston and made a statement to those officers at Police Headquarters.

The stolen truck was found abandoned yesterday morning in the rear of St. Mary's Catholic Church, and police said it belonged to B. V. Welsh, LaVale lumber dealer.

James Welsh told officers the keys were in the ignition when he took the vehicle from its parking place in Corriganville, and he added that he had seen the machine parked there previously with the keys in it.

After taking the truck, officers said Welsh told them, he drove to Cumberland where he "rode around" and then drove out Bedford Road.

About 3 a. m. he saw a truck loaded with beer parked at Bell's Service Station on Bedford Street and pilfered 22 cases of ale, loading them on the stolen truck, officers quoted Welsh as saying.

After stealing the beer, Welsh said he took the cases to his home and hid them in a shed in the yard, police related, adding that he then drove the truck to the yard in the rear of the church.

Welsh also admitted attempting to steal an automobile on Pearl Street but said he was frightened away, according to his statement.

Detective Lilya said some of the ale and almost all of the empty bottles were recovered.

Welsh is scheduled to be taken to the office of the State's Attorney this morning.

Patch Is Jailed In Liquor Case

Ralph Edgar Patch, 25, South Centre Street, was committed to the county jail for 90 days yesterday afternoon in default of a $500 fine imposed by Magistrate Frank A. Perdew after the local man pleaded guilty to a charge of giving alcoholic beverage to a minor girl.

Patch, commandant of Francis K. Finan Detachment, Marine Corps League, entered a plea of guilty Tuesday and admitted he gave Florence Lee, 17, 100 Roberts Street, a drink of gin in the Marine Club, South Mechanic Street, last Friday night.

A fine of $100 was also imposed by Magistrate Perdew on A. Joseph Chorpenning, under whose name the club's liquor license was obtained. He was released after paying the fine.

Authorities pointed out that Chorpenning, who entered a plea of not guilty, was automatically charged with the same offense as Patch since his name is on the liquor license. He was not directly involved in the act and was not present when Patch, on his own admission, gave the girl a drink of gin at the local Marine Club, attaches said.

Lease Contracts Being Studied At Rent Office

A dozen lease contracts between landlords and tenants under provisions of the Housing and Rent Act of 1947 have been received at the local rent office.

Rent Administrator Caleb J. White said rent office workers are checking the agreements, which will be approved or disapproved depending upon how they meet requirements of the act. A 15 per cent increase in rentals on leases extending through December 31, 1948, is allowed provided the tenant agrees.

Without such an agreement, White emphasized, landlords are required by law to charge no more than the rent prevailing on June 30, 1947, and to continue furnishing the same equipment and service as of that date.

Any rents collected in excess of June 30 rates are considered overcharges, subject to legal action by tenants for treble damages, court costs and attorney fees.

USNR Recruiters Will Visit Here

NORFOLK, Va., July 16—Traveling Recruiting Unit Number 2, representing the U. S. Naval Reserve in the Fifth Naval District comes into Cumberland July 27 for a four-day stand. The unit, in charge of Lieutenant Commander James C. Respass, USNR, Norfolk, Va., comes to the Maryland city following a successful stay in Winchester, Va., where many new members were taken into the Reserve.

The Traveling Recruiting Unit, while in Cumberland, will work in cooperation with the local Organized Naval Reserve Unit, of which Lieutenant Commander Walter N. Hedrick, USNR, is Organizing Officer. The Traveling group will be in the city to give full information on the Naval Reserve program, both the V-6 (inactive) and the O-1 (organized) phases.

Naval Reserve interest is reported to be high in Western Maryland, with an active unit functioning at Cumberland. The Reserve program is open to veterans and non-veterans alike. World War II veterans are all eligible, and may sign up with the rate they held at discharge. Non-veterans between the ages of 17 and 40 may also apply for membership in the Naval Reserve.

Commander Clarence R. Beiser, USNR, Naval Reserve Procurement Officer, Fifth Naval District, pointed out that the Naval Reserve program should be particularly attractive to non-veterans between the ages of 17 and 20 since, from that group, the President annually may appoint 160 men to the United States Naval Academy in Annapolis.

Following its four days in Cumberland the Traveling Recruiting Unit will continue to Frostburg, July 31 and August 1. While there, full information about the Reserve may be obtained by calling at the trailer.

Two Movies Booked For Camera Club

Two sound movies, "The Family Album," dealing with photographic lighting problems, and "Flash Photography Is Good Photography" will be shown at the meeting of the Cumberland Camera Club next Wednesday, July 23 at 8 p. m.

Samuels says the film "teaches more about lighting problems in 30 minutes than the average amateur could pick up in a month of Sundays doing it the hard way."

Both "The Family Album" and "Flash Photography Is Good Photography" are General Electric films and were obtained by Curl's Camera Shop.

One Owner Wants To Sell Her Interest

Asking a court decree for the sale of a property in Midland, Mary Beatrice Eagan filed suit in Circuit Court yesterday against Edward B. Eagan.

The bill of complaint states that on October 10, 1942, John A. Eagan conveyed the property to Miss Eagan, his daughter, and to Eagan, his son, as joint tenants with right of survivorship.

Miss Eagan asserts that she wants her interests sold but adds that the defendant refuses to agree on any definite sum he will pay for the one-half interest she has in the property.

Through her attorney, Clarence Shutter, Miss Eagan asserts that it will be to the best interest of the parties that the real estate be sold and the proceeds distributed.

The court is asked to asume jurisdiction and to appoint trustees to sell the real estate and distribute the proceeds after the payment of court costs and expenses.

BALTIMORE, July 16 (AP)—Maryland's Legislative Council plans to go to Cumberland and the state's two westernmost counties for its next meeting, early in August.

State Senator Robert Kimble, Republican leader from Allegany County and a member of the council, said one of the main purposes would be to give members a chance to study local government problems with officials of Garrett and Allegany Counties.

The tour will include a visit to Frostburg State Teachers' College, and Kimble said he hoped it would convince the council that the college "should not be abandoned or moved from the hills of Western Maryland."

Such a proposal was made by the State Commission on Higher Education.

Council members will entrain from Baltimore and Washington and arrive in Cumberland Wednesday night, August 6. The next day they will embark on a tour of industrial plants, coal mines, state forests, and other points of interest.

The program, Kimble said, will include several functions in addition of the meetings with officials of Cumberland and Garrett and Allegany Counties.

Ridgeley School Is Sixth In Nation To Get Watchmaking Certification

Morgan's Vocational School, Ridgeley, W. Va., became the sixth school in the nation to be certified for its watchmaking equipment and instruction, following an inspection visit Tuesday by A. S. Roe, Indianapolis, Ind., first vice president of the Horological Institute of America and chairman of the institute's board of school certification.

The school, with an enrollment of 85 World War II veterans from Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia, Kentucky, Ohio and Pennsylvania, is operated by Paul Morgan, a certified watchmaker, who has been in the watchmaking profession for the past 15 years. He is a member of the institute's advisory council.

Opened about 18 months ago in the old Knobley Hill grade school building, the school has seven instructors, five teaching watchmaking, and the other two teaching mathematics and mechanical drawing, and machine shop practice. The course lasts two years, and each student is a member of the Horological Institute of America, which numbers about 2,600 members in the United States.

During Roe's all-day visit at the Ridgeley school, a colored film was shown on watch cleaning, and a question and answer period was conducted by one of the instructors, Howard Burns, Cumberland, a former Army officer. Roe, who is also chairman of the Indiana Watchmaking Examiners Board, gave an address on the importance of good workmanship in watchmaking.

Junior watchmakers' and certified watchmakers' examinations are conducted by the Horological Institute, which supplies mutilated watches to students for repair. Roe and the board of examiners check their efforts for accuracy and workmanship, and the repaired watches are also examined by the United States Bureau of Standards for timing.

Roe has been active in the watchmaking and timing profession for the past 42 years. His visit to Rodgeley was the first he has made in this area.

Other schools which have been certified are Bowman's Technical Institute, Lancaster, Pa.; Elgin Watchmakers College, Elgin, Ill.; Waltham Watchmakers College, Waltham, Mass.; Bradley Technical Institute, Peoria, Ill., and the Department of Horology at New York State College, New York City.

Reece And Randolph Land At Airport

Cumberland's airport proved a common meeting ground last night for the chairman of the Republican National Committee and a former West Virginia Democratic Congressman who left the impression he may again cast his hat into the political ring in 1948.

B. Carroll Reece, GOP national chairman, who served 24 years in Congress from Tennessee, and Jennings Randolph, who served 12 years in the House of Representatives, from the second West Virginia district, landed at the local airport when their twin engine Beechcraft plane turned back after encountering a severe electrical storm near Martinsburg, W. Va.

Together they left Washington yesterday at 11 a. m. to attend in Pittsburgh a 78th anniversary luncheon for M. L. Benedum, Clarksburg, W. Va., native, who has come to be known as the greatest "wildcatter" in the oil business.

Hard To Convince

They were returning to Washington when they landed here about 6:30 p. m. in a Capital Airlines plane piloted by Art M. Soper, Jr., and William M. Cason.

Randolph, now assistant to the president of Capital Airlines, laughingly remarked to a reporter that Reece had spent the hour and five minutes flying time to Pittsburgh yesterday morning "trying to convince me that a Republican would be elected president next year."

Queried as to the possibility of him seeking to regain his seat in the House of Representatives next year, Randolph answered only with a smile. However, he left the impression that he is giving the matter serious consideration.

Both Reece and Randolph were on the speaking list at the luncheon for Benedum, for whom Clarksburg's Benedum Airport is named.

Randolph Presents Certificate

Among the 100 business, political and civic leaders attending the luncheon besides Randolph and Reece, who is the husband of the former Miss Louise Goff, daughter of former United States Senator Guy D. Goff, of Clarksburg, were former Gov. M. M. Neely of West Virginia, E. T. Weir, of Weirton Steel; Dr. D. S. Bond, of Salem College, Salem, W. Va.; William Boyd, New York City, president of the American Petroleum Institute; and Walter S. Hallanan, Republican national committeeman for West Virginia.

Weir, Hallanan and Neely also were on the speakers' list.

Meeting Will Be Held In Romney

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 16 (AP)—Plans initiating a coordinated flood control program in Eastern West Virginia counties lying within the Potomac River region will be formed July 29 at a meeting in Romney, State Forester William B. Sayers announced today.

He emphasized, however, that the proposed work does not include engineering projects. It represents simply an effort to "initiate a sound action program to solve water problems in one section of the state" by improved land-management practices in non-farm woodlands, Sayers added.

The program has been made possible by newly-appropriated federal funds distributed through the U. S. Forest Service to West Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania and Virginia.

The West Virginia allotment for the present fiscal year amounts to $6,600, but Sayers said this would be supplemented by state funds in bringing "every acre of forest land" in Grant, Mineral, Hardy, Hampshire and Pendleton counties under a definite management plan.

Similar work will be carried out later in Berkeley, Morgan and Jefferson counties.

The forester explained that the South Branch district of the Conservation Commission's Forestry Division now includes the eastern counties to be covered by the work. The South Branch area, he added, will be divided into at least three sub-watersheds to facilitate the introduction of new water-control practices.

Attending the Romney meeting will be representatives of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, the Monongahela National Forest, West Virginia University College of Agriculture and Agricultural Extension Service, the U. S. Forest Service, the Monongahela Power Company and the State Conservation Commission.

A funeral service for the other victim, Thomas D. Stump, 31-year-old veteran of World War II, also of 919 Maryland Avenue, will be held at the Hafer Funeral Home here. Rev. Jesse W. # Hyndman Man Drives Bricker To Safety

Jerry W. Albright, 26, a native of Hyndman, was the operator of the senate subway car which sped Sen. John W. Bricker, (R-Ohio) from an armed assailant, who fired two shots at him with a .22 calibre pistol Saturday.

Albright stated that Sen. Bricker jumped into the car used to carry senators and their guests from tte Senate Office Building to the Capitol, and told him to "get out of here" after the first shot was fired.

The senator and his friend were walking toward the car when the first attempt at his life was made by William L. Kaiser, 49, an ex-capital policeman. As he gave the order the Hyndman man said he saw Kaiser shoot the second time.

After making the trip back to the office building he said the ex-policeman, was still standing there. Shortly afterwards the assailant walked out of one of the best policed building in the world without being stopped.

Mayor To Introduce Order On Monday

Mayor Thomas S. Post informed the three members of the Board of Zoning Appeals at their meeting last night in City Hall that he will introduce an order at Monday's council meeting for payment of $120 to each member per year for their services, effective as of July 1.

The board had previously requested the Mayor and Council to approve payment of $5 to each member per case handled.

The mayor praised William M. Weatherholt, chairman; Joseph R. Mantheiy and Charles Paul Roeder for their work in hearing appeals for occupancy permits, and in inspecting sites involved in the application. Service on the board, which was established after the city zoning ordinance was passed in November, 1944, has been on a voluntary basis.

Thomas Lohr Richards and James Alfred Avirett, trustees for the Charles Langer estate, appeared before the board to appeal for a permit to use a two-story brick building at 501 North Centre Street, formerly occupied by a grocery store, for an office and store, and to use a vacant lot at the rear of the building to construct a cleaning plant.

They explained that the appeal was a provisional one on behalf of George M. Young, owner of the nearby Star Dye Works plant on Necessity Street, who is interested in purchasing the North Centre Street property.

The board decided to hold the application in abeyance pending a trustees' sale of the property on July 30 at public auction, and to grant the permit if Young buys the property.

It was voted to change the board's meeting night from the first and third Wednesday of each month to the second Wednesday only. The change will become effective next month. If necessary, however, special meetings will be held at the chairman's order. The next regular meeting will be held August 13.

City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer yesterday granted a permit to DeSales Mattingly, 313 Caroline Avenue, to build a five-room house on Lot 118, Utah Avenue, at an estimated cost of $5,000. The one and a half story building will measure 24 by 28 feet with a concrete block foundation frame walls covered with ensulated brick siding, and roof of asphalt shingles. Work will be done by the owner.

POLICE UNIFORMS NEED GLAMOUR, STYLIST SAYS

The Maryland State Trooper uniform needs a glamourizing job done, according to Henry L. Jackson, noted men's wear stylist and fashion editor of Collier's magazine, who wrote a letter to that effect from New York to Capt. Ruxton M. Ridgely, of the State Police.

Jackson, who as civilian consultant to the War Department has designed many of the Army's new type uniforms, including the "Eisenhower" jacket, went on to volunteer his services gratis to the Maryland State Police in smartening up the force's uniforms.

His letter read as follows: "For many years I have been covering events in Maryland, such as The Maryland Hunt Club races, Pimlico and Laurel because these places are "style setters". Many Maryland men originate men's fashions so I am in your hospitable and gracious State often. I have, like so many others, been very much impressed with the men of the Maryland State Police. They are a fine group of public-spirited men. Yesterday, when I read that you are engaged in a recruiting drive to attract more men to a career in the Maryland State Police, this thought occurred to me.

"Clothes make the man", we stylists believe. And I think if the Maryland State Police uniform had an added touch of glamour and smartness, it would help you get the right kind of volunteers. Please don't get me wrong, Captain, you have a good uniform now, a fine uniform, but I have a few suggestions I'd like to make to give your men a more dashing appearance. With your permission, I would like to send you some sketches to visualize my ideas."

Capt. Ridgely has reported Jackson's offer to Col. Beverly Ober, superintendent of the State Police, and to Karl F. Steinmann, chairman of the recruiting campaign, which officially starts Friday, with a luncheon at Hotel Emerson under the sponsorship of the Advertising Club of Baltimore.
